FOWL TAKE FLIGHT IN THE FOG

Dense fog, which hampered flights in and out of Bay Area airports for the second straight day today, doesn't delay the takeoff of assorted waterfowl from a ghostly channel in the Bahia subdivision of Novato. Although the fog early today blurred the features of homes across the channel and reduced visibility at nearby Hamilton Air Force Base so much that flights were delayed, the birds did not hesitate to take flight when startled. S. Vietnam Quits Base In Cambodia

Move Taken To Meet Red Threat To Saigon

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnam abruptly abandoned its major Cambodian base at Krek today to meet a growing Communist threat to the Saigon area. The withdrawal triggered a mass desertion by 2,400 Cambodian troops who fled into South Vietnam after them.

President Nguyen Van Thieu has predicted a general Communist offensive throughout Indochina to coincide with President Nixon's February visit to Peking, and a North Vietnamese offensive in Laos moved on unchecked despite massive U.S. air attacks.

U.S. military spokesmen disclosed the North Vietnamese have moved missiles deep into southern Laos for the first time and said two SAMs were fired at a F4 Phantom jet near Sepone, but missed. Military sources in recent days have reported an increase in MIG activity along the Ho Chi Minh Trail, too.

B52s operating out of Bangkok pounded Communist supply trails and the U.S. command said a F105 Thunderchief fired a missile at a North Vietnamese antiaircraft base after electronic devices discovered the Communists were about to fire at the bombers. It was the fourth such "protective reaction" strike this year.

Despite the air raids North Vietnamese drove Laotian troops out of the village of Ban Nhik in southern Laos near the town of Pakse, inflicting heavy losses and virtually slicing off the southern tip of Laos. They also drove close to the CIA base of Long Chen, 80 miles north of Vientiane.

Military spokesmen in Saigon said the South Vietnamese pulled out of Krek, Suong and all other Cambodian bases beyond a new operations boundary three miles inside Cambodia in the area 80 miles northwest of Saigon. They said they did so to strengthen the Saigon area against an expected Communist offensive.

They said there had been an upsurge of infiltration toward Saigon in the last several days, with one small guerrilla group striking only six miles away on Monday.

Newspapers in Phnom Penh said the South Vietnamese withdrew from the Cambodian border positions without informing the Cambodians in advance and without giving the Cambodians operating with them a chance to regroup.

Col. Thach Chanh, commander of the 2,400-man Cambodian brigade, said that his men would be quickly overrun without South Vietnamese support and that he would rather face jail than stay in the small camp at Krek without that support.

Tran Van Phuoc, the South Vietnamese ambassador to Cambodia, told UPI correspondent Kate Webb in Phnom Penh before flying back to Saigon today that he was "angry" at Cambodian press reports complaining about behaviour of South Vietnamese troops on Cambodian soil.

He said the South Vietnamese were being pulled back to meet a dry season threat aimed at the Central Highlands and the Cambodian border province of Tay Ninh—"as usual they want to take a couple of provinces."

Despite the withdrawal from Krek, South Vietnamese and Cambodian forces were reported still carrying out a sweep in the Angel's Wing area of Cambodia, which juts into South Vietnam. Military sources in Phnom Penh said the drive through Prey Veng and Svay Rieng provinces had met no resistance.

The South Vietnamese pulled out of Kre, Suong and other bases in the rubber plantation area of the Saigon government's latest Cambodian operation in order to return the troops to the South Vietnamese

Commuter Buses Still Have Woes

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The Golden Gate Bridge District's new commuter bus system ran far smoother last night than it had early last week in its first few days of operations, but long waits and standing-room-only still plagued several routes from the financial district to Marin.

The delays, one of which caught the "father" of the new bus system, lasted up to almost a half hour for commuters returning to the Tiburon Peninsula, Mill Valley and Novato. But many believed the bridge district was doing its best to improve operations, and urged patience by commuters.

Standing in the middle of a line of some 30 persons bound for Novato and San Marin was former bridge director Thomas D. Hardcastle of Novato, who was the prime mover behind the district's entry into bus operations. It was his first ride aboard the new coaches, he said, noting he has commuted for several years on a charter bus from Eastshore Lines.

Hardcastle had to wait almost a half-hour before an empty bus arrived to clear up the entire Novato-San Marin line. Three earlier buses either were too full to stop or could take only a few standees.

But the former bridge director, who served on the board from 1962 to 1968, appealed to commuters to "give the transit system our whole-hearted sup-

LT. G. ALBERT HOWENSTEIN
Candidate for chief

Howenstein Frontrunner In Tiburon

Lt. G. Albert Howenstein of the San Anselmo Police Department today confirmed he is one of two candidates for police chief in Tiburon and said he would be "very pleased" to take the job if offered to him.

He said City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer has promised to make an appointment "either today or tomorrow."

The Independent-Journal learned that Howenstein, a 12-year veteran of the San Anselmo force, is the frontrunner for the job as Tiburon's first chief. The other candidate is Lt. Maurice D. Lafferty of the Novato Police Department.

Lafferty could not be reached for comment today.

The men were interviewed by the Tiburon City Council Saturday.

The first job of the new chief, according to Balmer, will be to hire the rest of his department, which will take over police protection in July. The Marin County Sheriff's office has provided police service in Tiburon since the city was incorporated in 1964, but notified the city it was pulling out because of the burden on its force.

No salary has been set for the post, although Balmer has recommended the new chief be paid in excess of $15,600.

Howenstein, 33, has been cited numerous times for his police work, especially in the field of drug abuse. He was named officer of the year in 1967 by the Kiwanis Club of the Ross Valley and last June was named outstanding citizen of the year by division 8 of the Kiwanis Club, which includes Marin.

Airline Asks HAFB Jet Passenger Runs

I-J Special Report

SAN JOSE — A spokesman for Hughes Air West airline said yesterday his company wants to provide passenger jet flights directly from Hamilton Air Force Base to Los Angeles, Portland and Seattle.

George Galvin, director for public affairs, outlined the company's plans at a hearing by the Association of Bay Area Governments on a proposed long-range airports plan for the region.

Galvin was one of 52 speakers at the hearing, according to Lizette Weiss, ABAG community relations aide.

Galvin told the panel the airline was only in the beginning stages of negotiating with Marin County and city officials over the proposal for joint civilian-military use of Hamilton's runway.

The airline proposed two daily flights south and two north, Miss Weiss reported. The jets would be DC-9s.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors visited Washington, D.C., in 1970 to obtain Pentagon cooperation on joint use of the base. The board was told the proposal could be worked out if the county would act as "responsible local agency," providing a terminal near but not on the base, and contracting with some airline for the flights.

At that time, discussion centered mainly on proposals by Golden Pacific Airlines and Golden West Airlines for short-haul shuttle service from Marin to San Francisco International Airport in prop-jet aircraft.

The earlier proposals are under study by the Marin Aviation Commission for recommendation to the supervisors, according to Thomas F. Campanella, assistant county administrator.

Galvin said yesterday that Hughes Air West believed Marin residents would prefer to fly directly to Los Angeles and the Pacific Northwest without having to change planes at San Francisco or Oakland airports.

ABAG will hold another hearing on the area-wide airport proposals at 9:30 a.m. Feb. 3 in Room 1194 of the State Building, 350 McAllister Street, San Francisco. Marin residents can get on the agenda to discuss the airline proposals, Miss Weiss said.

Early Voter Turnout Is Light, Heavy

Early voter turnout was mixed today in special elections in three school districts and the Bel Marin Keys Community Services District.

Voter turnout was extremely light in the uncontested election for a single seat on the Bolinas-Stinson School District board. By 11 a.m. only 13 of 374 registered voters in Stinson Beach had cast their ballots at the Stinson Beach community center, the community's only polling place.

John Harris of Bolinas is the only candidate for the seat since two other contenders, Peter Weston of Stinson Beach and Bobbie Creeley of Bolinas, announced their withdrawal last week.

No report was available on voting in Bolinas at the community center.

Voting in the Lagunitas School District was reported "fairly heavy and steady."

In the first four hours of voting, ending at 11 a.m., 157 votes had been cast in the race between Donald E. Lethbridge and Richard C. Sloan for a seat on the board of trustees.

The district's 1,837 voters also were being asked to approve a two-year extension of a special tax rate of 90 cents per $100, above the district's permanent legal tax rate maximum of $2.65.

In Bel Marin Keys, 68 of the community services district's 412 voters had cast ballots by 11 a.m. on a $700,000 bond issue to build a lock at the mouth of the community lagoon and dredge the waterway.

No figures were available on early voter turnout in the Shoreline Unified School District's bid for a $1.2 million bond issue. Supt. Charles E. McCully said no report had been received from the district's eight polling places by 11 a.m.

IN SOUTH VIETNAM

Another Major Red Offensive Predicted

By GEORGE W. ASHWORTH
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Prospects for a winter-spring offensive in South Vietnam may be greater now than at any time since the famous Tet battles in 1968.

According to sources here knowledgeable about intelligence information on Communist battle plans, the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong in South Vietnam now are exhorting troops in the field and their supporters to prepare themselves psychologically and militarily for another grand offensive.

The Communists this time are not giving any indications that they expect the renewed offensive to yield any final solution to the war, however.

There is to be no "great and final victory" as was expected by some of the forces last time.

Instead, sources here say, the Communists are being told that the new offensive will be carefully refined and defined and will be smaller in scope than the offensive mounted during the Tet lunar holidays in 1968.

These appear to be likely objectives:

1. There may be a drive to take and hold some major town or city long enough to raise the flag of the Provisional Revolutionary Government and to garner world headlines as well as, possibly, American dismay. If such an attempt is made, a likely objective could be the city of Tay Ninh, near the Cambodian border. The Holy See of the Cao Dai religious sect is at Tay Ninh.

2. Another objective could be either Kontum or Pleiku in the central highlands of Military Region II. Some officials are convinced an attack by perhaps three or so regiments against Kontum is, if not a certain prospect, a probable one. Again, the seizure, if possible, probably would be short-lived.

3. At disparate points throughout the country, rocket attacks and shelling, mostly in a very small scale, might be mounted more for political and psychological purposes than for military ones. Vunerable American units could be singled out for sapper (explosive charge) attacks to embarrass and keep the pressure on for withdrawal.

4. Broadly, the Communists would like to point out inadequacies in the South Vietnamese forces wherever possible and demoralize government troops, making them question their future prospects for success.

The attacks would also set the tone for spring and summer activities that would continue

County Enters Property Dispute In Marin City

The Marin County Board of Supervisors today stepped into the Marin City ridgeland fracas by authorizing its county counsel and one supervisor to take part in negotiations over release of the valuable property to a New York developer.

The action — requested by Supervisor Michael Wornum, who will travel to New York with County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney to take part in the talks — was approved unanimously by the board. Supervisor Louis H. Baar was absent.

In a related move, supervisors directed Maloney to study the impact on Marin City development if the county's redevelopment agency were scrapped — a move asked last by two Marin City agencies.

The proposed release of the ridgelands to California Development Co. of New York was approved last month by the county's housing authority and redevelopment agency boards, which hold title to the 167 acres above the community.

In return for releasing the ridgeland land, which the developer has paid for but not received title to, the agencies are

Parking Fines Go Up To $2

San Rafael Police Chief Joseph J. Brusatori advised drivers today that fines for parking violations in San Rafael will increase by one dollar, effective tomorrow.

Brusatori said the increase, previously approved by the city council, was to have gone into effect Jan. 1, but was delayed until receipt of new citation forms.

The basic meter overtime fine will go to $2.

Mount Burdell Freeway-Fill Quarrying Passed By Planners

By FRANK FARRARA

To the dismay of conservationists, the Novato Planning Commission early today narrowly approved excavation work at an old quarry on Mount Burdell for freeway fill. (Another planning commission story, page 11.)

But commissioners rejected a proposal to level the crown of Reichert Hills for the same purpose — to the joy of adjacent residents and conservationists.

The question of where fill for the Highway 101 bypass should be obtained has sparked a freeway-versus-environment debate in the community.

Commissioners recommended by a 3-2 vote that Ghilotti Brothers of San Rafael be granted a permit to excavate at the quarry site on the east slope of Mount Burdell.

The dissenting votes were cast by Commissioner Gail Wilhelm and Chairman John C.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

China's Foreign Minister Dies

HONG KONG (UPI) — Chen Yi, 71, Communist China's foreign minister, former army marshal and close friend of China's top leaders, died Jan. 6 of intestinal cancer, and was buried yesterday, radio Peking said today.

Chen Yi

Chi Peng-fei was named acting foreign minister, but the fact he was not named immediately to succeed Chen was an indication of Chen's high standing in the Communist party ranks.

Chen's funeral was the largest gathering of China's leaders since May 1.

Chen and the other marshals lost their titles when ranks were abolished in the Chinese army in 1965.

Chen commanded the Communist Third Field Army in the last year of China's civil war and was named military commandant and mayor of Shanghai after the Communists captured the city in 1949. He continued as mayor until 1958.

Chen was named a vice premier in 1954, a field marshal in 1955 and foreign minister in 1958.

Moon Features

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — A lunar geologist reported today that Apollo 15 photographed several strange features never before seen on the moon including a far side fissure bounding what looks like a frozen lava lake.

Dr. Farouk El-Baz said the 6,000 detailed pictures taken from lunar orbit last summer also showed a cluster of mysterious surface markings on a dark plateau facing earth.

"These irregular markings are unlike any familiar lunar surface features and are not presently understood," El-Baz said in a paper prepared for presentation at the second day of the third lunar science conference.

Heroin Haul

MIAMI (UPI) — Federal narcotics agents grabbed three duffel bags full of heroin at an empty Miami apartment Monday night, completing what one official called the biggest heroin haul in history.

The three duffel bags held 147 pounds of high-grade French heroin, which together with the 238 pounds seized here last week in the same case totaled 385 pounds of the narcotic with an estimated street sale value when diluted of $76 million.

"This is the largest seizure of heroin in the history of the world," said Thomas Hurney, deputy regional director for Miami of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs.

King Weakens

COPENHAGEN (UPI — The condition of King Frederick IX of Denmark deteriorated today, a royal court bulletin announced.

King Frederik suffered an acute heart attack and was taken to the nearby Kommune hospital on Jan. 3. The attack followed on top of a heavy bout of influenza and a touch of pneumonia.

SALT Session

VIENNA (UPI) — Soviet and American experts met in another session of the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) today and conference sources said the delegates soon would also resume their co-called "working group" meetings which are informal gatherings outside the regular sessions.

The "working groups" are small meetings in which the U.S. and Soviets discuss on a detailed level and such gatherings have been one of the most productive features of SALT since the talks began more than two years ago.

Dacca Session

DACCA (UPI) — Sheikh Mujibur Rahman met with his cabinet today and started an intensive round of briefings on the immediate problems facing his war-devastated nation of Bangladesh.

The Bengali leader plunged into the meetings following his return to Dacca to take over the government.

A Bangladesh government spokesman said Mujib planned to spend two to three days meeting with government officials before making any decision on steps to confront economic and internal problems.

Big Sun Burst

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Scientists have photographed for the first time an explosion on the sun which released enough kinetic energy to supply U.S. electrical needs for more than a million years at current consumption rates.

The explosion on Dec. 13 — the first ever directly observed by visual means — hurled into space clouds of hot material 20 to 40 times the size of the earth. The energy was comparable to that of 100 million 20-megaton H-bombs.

Belfast Raids

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — British troops seized 31 men in raids against security suspects in the past 24 hours, the army said today.

An army spokesman said the soldiers picked up 19 of the men in Belfast, including a number seized in a pre-dawn search of 10 houses in the Roman Catholic New Lodge Road area of the Northern Ireland capital.

AFTERMATH OF A SHOOT-OUT
Blood runs down officer's nose
(UPI Telephoto)

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)— City leaders said today a racial street shootout that left two deputy sheriffs and two Negroes dead was started by out-of-state Black Muslims plotting to take over the city and "give it back to the black people."

Eight young blacks —three from Chicago, one from Philadelphia and one from Los Angeles —were charged today with murder in the deputy slayings Monday. They were jailed under $500,000 bonds each.

"If they think they are going to take over the city, they are badly mistaken," said Mayor Woodrow Dumas, who lifted an overnight curfew at 6 a.m. today.

"We're ready and loaded for bear."

Besides the four persons killed in the street battle that started during a demonstration by 1,000 blacks, 34 persons were injured. Police said 71 persons were arrested —41 for curfew violations.

Police chased down and arrested a black man during the night and charged him with attempted murder in the sniper shooting of a patrolling squad car. The two officers inside were not hurt.

Maj. Howard Kidder, assistant police chief, said the "outside agitators" were in town to recruit local blacks.

Charged with murder were David McKinney, 22, Toussaint L'Overture, 21, and Clennon Brown, 25, all of Chicago; Warren Hall, 25, of Philadelphia; Robert J. Barber, 20, of Los Angeles; Lawrence Brooks, 25, and raymond Eames, 21, both of Baton Rouge, and Ridgley Williams Jr., who gave no age or address.

Those killed in the shooting were sheriff's deputies Ralph D. Hancock, 30, and Dewayne Wilder, 27. Thomas Davis, 25, of Chicago, also was killed. The other black victim was not identified.

Book Could Force Hughes To Reappear

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Howard Hughes is so determined to squash the book billed as his autobiography that he may emerge from his cherished seclusion to battle it in court, according to a spokesman for the mysterious billionaire.

Both Hughes and his opponents fired new salvos Monday in the growing battle over the controversial manuscript.

McGraw-Hill Books and author Clifford Irving told newsmen in New York they not only had canceled checks proving Hughes accepted payment for rights to his life story, but knew where the money was deposited in a secret account in Switzerland. Irving said the telephoned voice from the Bahamas in the much publicized Hughes news conference was not really Hughes.

Tracing the purported payment to Hughes—which could prove that Hughes helped prepare the autobiography, as Irving and the publishers maintain—has become a central issue in the argument.

Hughes, in the telephoned news conference Friday from his hotel suite in the Bahamas to newsmen in Los Angeles, denied he ever had received such a payment. He said such a large transaction could not be hidden if it really took place, and denounced the autobiography as a fraud.

McGraw-Hill and Life Magazine replied that they have proof the manuscript is authentic and Hughes helped prepare it, and will push ahead with plans to publish the book, and excerpts from it in the magazine, as planned this spring.

The spokesman said it was possible that Hughes would appear in court himself. "We can't say anything more at this time, but Mr. Hughes does not intend to let this fraudulent story of his life go unchallenged," the spokesman said.

Even in the Trans-World Airlines case, when millions of dollars were at stake, Hughes absorbed the loss rather than appear in public.

In New York, Harold W. McGraw, president of McGraw Hill Books, said Hughes may have had "a change of heart" after preparing the autobiography because it "might cause him a lot of problems, and that's why he might have changed his mind."

Israelis Hit 2 Villages In Lebanon

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Israeli troops raided two villages inside Lebanon during the night in an effort to block attacks by Palestinian guerrillas against Israeli border settlements, an Israeli spokesman reported in Tel Aviv. It was the first such attack reported in 11 months.

Israel reported two of its soldiers killed and one wounded in raids against the towns of 7,000 and 1,700 persons. A Lebanese military spokesman in Beirut said the Israelis also shelled other areas with artillery and that four Lebanese including a woman were killed.

Lebanese Prime Minister Saeb Salam held separate emergency meetings with army and guerrilla leaders and said the two groups would meet shortly to discuss the situation in southern Lebanon.

Beirut sent details of the Israeli attack to the U.N. Secretary General, the chairman of the Security Council and all of its embassies abroad, government sources said.

Israeli newspapers said Israeli artillery laid down a two-hour barrage to cover the retreat of the raiders through the difficult rocky and bushy terrain from the villages about two and a half miles inside Lebanon. The Israelis, inside Lebanon for about two hours, blew up five houses used as guerrilla headquarters.

Minor Boundary Changes Asked In Senate Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill introduced in the Senate Monday would authorize the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission to make minor changes in its boundaries without the Legislature's consent.

Sen. John A. Nejedly, RWalnut Creek, said the measure was sought by Melvin B. Lane, chairman of the commission, to handle what the lawmaker called administrative matters of "no major substance" which must be approved by the Legislature.

The bill retains the Legislature's intent that the commission must "not be able to expand its own jurisdiction by creating new priority area," Nejedly said.

Hongisto Publicly Becomes Sheriff

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Richard D. Hongisto publicly took the oath of office Monday as San Francisco's sheriff but the ceremony was strictly for the news media.

Hongisto was sworn in privately Dec. 31 to avoid a weekend hiatus between his taking office and the departure of outgoing Sheriff Matthew Carberry.

Judge Hits Richmond's School Plan

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)— Federal District Judge Robert H. Merhige Monday ordered Richmond's largely white suburbs brought into the city's predominantly-black school system.

Merhige, a controversial judge whose house has been guarded by U.S. marshals for several months because of threats stemming from other desegregation rulings, said city and county boundaries were mere "political conveniences."

He said the fact that the current school segregation came as a result of housing patterns and the "white flight" to the suburbs "rather than by legislative pronouncement makes the situation no less evil."

IMMEDIATE MOVE

The ruling touched off an immediate move by an antibusing group, U.S. Citizens for Neighborhood Schools, for signatures on a petition calling for Merhige's impeachment and brought tight security measures at the federal court building which houses Merhige's office.

Officials of the two "bedroom" counties involved in the ruling said the decision would be appealed.

Merhige directed a delighted Richmond School Board and the shocked school boards of Henrico and Chesterfield counties to set up a metropolitan school system by September.

. The system Merhige envisages would have 104,000 students —the second largest in Virginia —more than three-fourths of whom would be bused to achieve an optimum racial mix of 70 per cent white schools.

The plan would mean busing about 10,000 more pupils than are now bused in the three systems, but Merhige said it would not require the purchase of additional buses.

The plan is substantially the same one proposed by the Richmond School Board during a five-week trial last summer. The board, prodded by a group of black plaintiffs, went to court in an attempt to alleviate its desegregation problems.

BEST ANSWER

The city proposed merging its 65 per cent black schools with the 90 pr cent white ones of the two counties as the best answer to the twin challenges of integration and quality education.

The counties and the state Board of Education, named as a codefendant becauss of its alleged role in maintaining segregation, fought the idea strenuously on the grounds they should not be drawn into Richmond's school problems. Both counties were operating under federally-approved desegregation plans.

But Merhige dismissed the defendants' claim, saying "it has little merit in the face of past discriminatory practices on the part of all the defendants."

Feared Lost

VICTORIA, B.C. (UPI) — The 41 persons aboard the freighter Dona Anita which sank Sunday in pounding seas off the cost of Vancouver Island may have survived half an hour "if they managed to get into their life rafts — which they probably didn't do," a rescuer said Monday.

Multimillionaire Gulbenkian Dies

CANNES, France (UPI)-- Nubar Sarkis Gulbenkian, reputedly one of the world's richest men who once sued his father in a dispute over a $2.22 chicken lunch, died Monday of a heart attack, his secretary said today. He was 75.

Gulbenkian suffered a serious heart attack almost three years ago and had been confined to a wheelchair since then.

Gulbenkian, whose wealth came from Middle East oil development, lived much of his later life in a small village on the French Riviera.

Gulbenkian, was a gourmet, philanthropist, and a man who believed in living life to the full. "Put zest into anything you do and you will enjoy it," he once said.

His trademarks were his monocle, black, bushy eyebrows, bristling white beard and a penchant for orchid butonnieres which he even wore fox hunting.

Gulbenkian's career in oil and finance began in 1917 when his father, Calouste, was already a millionaire. He negotiated oil contracts for the French government before joining the Royal Dutch Shell group.

Together with his father, he negotiated for Iranian and Iraqi petroleum interests with Western nations before the current Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) was formed.

Educated in England at Harrow and Trinity College, Cambridge. Gulbenkian married three times without having any children.

During one of these perusals, he discovered an entry for $2.22 —"lunch for Mr. Nubar." Calouste chastised his son for charging the lunch —chicken in tarragon jelly with asparagus tips — to the office.

Nubar, tmought his father's remarks were unfair. He sued.

During the three-day court fight Nubar produced one million documents, which weighed about one ton, relating to his father's business.

Nubar called off the suit and Calouste paid the costs, — $72,000.

Gulbenkian was born June 2, 1896, in the small village of Kadi Keui on the Asiatic shores of the Bosphorus in Turkey. Within weeks after his birth, his family fled the country because of the "Armenian massacres" ordered by the Ottoman empire ruler, Abdul Hamid II.

McCarthy May Bolt To A Fourth Party

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Former Sen. Eugene McCarthy, who ran strongly in primaries in 1968 but failed to get the presidential nomination, said Monday he may bolt the Democratic party unless the political climate improves this year.

McCarthy said in Chicago it was "quite evident" to him that the 1972 Democratic presidential nominating convention will be controlled by the same party leaders in charge during the 1968 convention in Chicago. That convention overwhelmingly nominated Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, who had not campaigned in any primaries. Humphrey went on to lose to Republican Richard Nixon.

McCarthy said the question of whether this year's convention is an "open one" depends upon how party leaders react to the results of the primaries.

"If the situation is comparable to 1968, think there would be a fourth political party, and I would be committed to serve it," the former Minnesota senator said.

Earlier Monday, Humphrey formally entered the 1972 race, announcing his candidacy at Philadelphia. He then flew to Florida where he will confront his 1968 running mate, Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine, in a March 14 primary.

Muskie is rated the front runner for the Democratic nomination in a field that already includes nine entries and is expected to grow to 10 later this week with the announcement of Alabama Gov. George Wallace, who received 13.5 per cent of the vote as the candidate of the American Independent Party in 1968. Wallace is expected to run as a Democrat in the Florida primary.

Humphrey criticized Nixon Monday for failing to end the Vietnam war. He said if he had been elected in 1968, the war now would be over. Humphrey also pledged himself to "revitalize" the nation's economy.

Muskie took his campaign Monday to Wisconsin and received a band-playing, Main street welcome from a crowd estimated at more than 1,000 at Marathon City, a town of 1,214 persons.

The Maine senator used a bullhorn to address the crowd from the bed of a truck. He was applauded when he said he believed the secretary of agriculture should be a farmer and said the family farm should be preserved.

Nixon recently named Purdue University dean Earl L. Butz as secretary of Agriculture. Butz was confirmed by the Senate despite the complaints of opponents that he favored corporate farms over family farms.

Another Democratic candidate, Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana, said at Atlanta Monday that he would enter the Florida primary today.

Hartke said he wants withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam to hinge on the release of American prisoners of war. He said the United States had lost its bargaining position in the war and "had abandoned American POWs in North Vietnam."

THE TORNADO'S TRAIL

Tornado winds in the Atlanta area yesterday stacked these new cars as though they were toys. The tornado, which injured at least seven persons, touched down in this storage lot, destroying about 70 automobiles. "It just pitched them one on top of another like matchboxes," a witness said.

Family Life Class Wins Trustee Nod

The Kentfield School District board last night approved a family life course and requested staff to develop a course on venereal disease for approval Jan. 24.

Supt. Anthony G. Bacich said the family life classes for fifth and sixth-graders will deal mostly with relationships to family and peers, but is about one-fifth sex education. The classes, which will begin early in February, were designed to expand on educational television, Bacich said.

Bacich said the classes, which have stirred up opposition in other school districts, drew none from Kentfield parents or trustees.

Courses for seventh and eighth-graders on venereal disease were urged in letters from Gov. Ronald Reagan and Dr. Wilson C. Riles, state superintendent of public instruction.

The Kentfield School District board also:

APPLICATION — Applied to the state under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act for $1,100 to spend on library development.

JOINT MEETING — Appointed Trustees DeWitt K. MacDonald and John R. B. Ellis to meet with two trustees of the Ross School District, probably Feb. 8, to discuss possible merger or joint programs.

TRANSFER — Approved continued attendance of Robert Wardlaw in the second grade at San Clemente School in the Larkspur School District, although his parents have moved into the Kentfield district.

HEARING — Approved spending $4,475 to purchase a small piece of land adjoining Adaline E. Kent School from the Marin Community College District as the site of a facility for children with hearing difficulties. The state Department of Special Education will reimburse the district for the land, Bacich said.

BELVEDERE MYSTERY

The Missing-Stove Case Ends Happily

It was a crime that would have inspired the world's great mystery writers.

How, wondered Belvedere police, could a burglar have walked into an empty house in broad daylight yesterday, removed a stove and carried it off, leaving not a single clue or witness. And why, they asked, would anyone do such a thing in the first place.

It all began when a new stove was delivered to a house on Leeward Road which was being remodeled by a local contractor. All was going smoothly until a problem arose: what to do with the old stove.

"I guess you're supposed to take it," the contractor informed the delivery man. So, the old stove was carted off quietly and the contractor went to lunch.

He returned to the house an hour later and was surprised to find that the new stove had disappeared.

The contractor promptly reported the burglary to police and officers began combing the area for a witness to the theft.

They knocked on doors without success for a half-hour before the mystery was unraveled.

The real estate man handling the home had stopped by to inform the contractor he had sent another man to pick up the old stove.

Finding only one stove in the house, the man assumed it was the old one and spirited it away to Sonoma.

The story had a happy ending, however. The old stove was exchanged for the new one and the contractor and police breathed sighs of relief.

$117,000 Fire Budget Approved

A $117,455 budget proposal for 1972-73 was approved last night by the Marinwood Fire Commission.

Fire Chief Gaylord E. Bonfield said the proposal will be presented to the Marinwood Community Services District board for its consideration.

The proposal is an increase over this year's $100,253 budget. Bonfield said the hike represented hiring of an additional fireman and start of an employee retirement fund.

Bonfield had presented a $124,080 budget proposal to the board, but said the board "very reluctantly" made cuts due to insufficient revenue.

The major item deleted from the proposal was $6,000 for purchase of a reserve fire engine, he said.

Rezoning Of Fairfax Area In Petition

A 794-signature initiative petition, calling for rezoning of Marin Town and Country Club, was submitted to the Fairfax city officials yesterday.

The petition, submitted by the Preserve Land and Nature (PLAN) committee, was to be turned over to the county elections office today for verification of the signatures.

If the petition contains more than 15 per cent of the city's 3,388 registered voters — as it appears to — the city council will have the choice of adopting the rezoning ordinance itself or calling an election to let voters decide the issue.

City Administrator Robert E. Crowe said the petition should be returned from the elections office in time for the issue to be presented to the council either Feb. 3 or Feb. 14.

The ordinance called for in the petition is a part of a proposed new zoning ordinance being studied by the city council, but the council last week rejected PLAN's request that it rezone the town and country club property immediately, making the petition and election unnecessary.

Some Reservations To Countywide Plan

With six reservations, the Tiburon City Council last night endorsed the preliminary countywide plan which foresees most future growth in the eastern part of Marin.

The council reaction to the plan, which was explained last week at a special council-planning commission meeting, will be forwarded to the Marin City-County Planning Council.

In its list of reservations, the council endorsed formation of a watchdog agency to make sure the plan is being followed; asked for a definition of where local planning supersedes the new plan; asked residential densities to be shown more precisely in order to define future growth areas exactly, and requested formal adoption of the plan by the county and all of Marin's cities.

The council also asked that acquisition of open space in eastern Marin be made the "highest priority" and said all outside sources of paying for parkland, public and private, should be explored.

Councilmen said they objected to the term "eastern urbanized corridor" used in the countywide plan and asked the "primary growth area" be substituted.

They said the old term suggested developers could build very dense developments with the implied consent of the preliminary plan.

In endorsing the plan with reservations, Tiburon followed the example of the Novato and San Anselmo city councils. Corte Madera and San Rafael have gone on record largely opposing the plan.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

OFFICES — Adopted an ordinance prohibiting professional offices in duplex or multiple family zones.

HEIGHT — After wrangling for almost an hour, introduced an amendment to the zoning ordinance eliminating reference to stories in figuring building heights and prohibited filling a sloping parcel in order to measure building height from a higher point.

PLANS — Approved master and precise plans for 10 apartments on .95 of an acre between Linda Vista Avenue and Mar East Street.

APARTMENTS — Approved a 36-unit apartment building on Marinero Circle on the condition that further landscaping may be required if recommended by Brown-Heldt Col, landscape architects.

BOARD — Reappointed Elmo DeMartini to a second two-year term as the city's representative to the Marin Mosquito Abatement District board.

TV — Agreed to the acquisition of Cable TV of Marin, which serves part of Tiburon, by Viacom International.

RAISES — Delayed granting 5.5 per cent raises to eight of the city's 15 employees until councilmen study the matter further.

PERSONNEL — Introduced an ordinance permitting adoption of rules and regulations for employees by resolution.

PARK — Said it would buy a two-acre parcel above Reed School as a park for $36,000 from the Marin County Housing Authority if the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development contributes half.

MEETINGS — Set a special meeting for 8 p.m. Jan. 27 at city hall to consider open space acquisition and decided to hold the regular meeting of Jan. 24 on Jan. 31.

CLOSED — Went into closed session to discuss condemnation of one-third of Blackie's Pasture. The council has talked of buying the land at Tiburon Boulevard and Trestle Glen Boulevard for a city hall for years.

Business License Tax Hike Dies

Proposed increases in Rohnert Park's business license tax unanimously were killed last night by the city council after the business community complained the boosts would handicap the city in attracting new commerce and industry.

The ordinance had set new fees for all classifications and included increases as large as 250 per cent. It was designed to increase city revenue from $7,000 to $18,000.

The businessmen, while acknowledging the current tax may need review since it is eight years old, said the proposed hikes were unwarranted.

Most complained that businesses get few extra city services for the fee and increasing it would discourage future development.

Councilman Armando Flores, agreeing with the businessmen, said the extra revenue would be at the expense of business good will. Councilman Vernon P. Smith said he would serve on a committee to prepare a new ordinance with smaller increases.

In other action at the adjourned meeting, the council approved hiring William Ross as professional at the municipal golf course. His contract calls for a salary of $300 per month plus revenue from lessons, 5 per cent of green fees and sales at the pro shop and snack bar.

Red Cross Needs Help On Letters

The Marin Chapter of the American Red Cross needs help addressing 60,000 envelopes for its annual membership campaign before mid-February, according to membership coordinator Cathy Weldon.

Volunteers can help either at the chapter house or at home.

Envelopes may be picked up at the chapter house, 712 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, or will be delivered to volunteers who have no transportation.

Plea Date Is Set For Trio

Larry David Adams, 22, of Marin City; Bernard Jerome Stringer, 25, of San Francisco, and Keith James Jackson, 19, of San Rafael, were arraigned yesterday in Marin Superior Court on charges stemming from their midnight arrest outside a Tamalpais Valley restaurant last November.

The three were arrested Nov. 29 by Sheriff's deputies, who said the men were found behind the La Camembert restaurant shortly after midnight with nylon stockings on their heads.

All three are charged with attempting to burglarize the restaurant and conspiring to commit theft. In addition, Adams is charged with possessing stolen property and Stringer and Jackson with possession of marijuana.

They are to plead to the charges Jan. 24.

Purchasing Report Will Be Heard

A report on purchasing procedures will be given to the Dixie School District board at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the board room of the administration building.

Joseph B. Goff, assistant superintendent, will tell the board how the district purchases educational supplies, janitorial supplies, and items needed to maintain the district buildings.

Fog Hampers Operations At Bay Area Airports

San Francisco (UPI) — Fog was prevalent over the San Francisco Bay Area today, hampering operations at major airports. In Southern California, Los Angeles International Airport was closed for nearly seven hours.

In Marin, Hamilton Air Force Base officials reported some flights were delayed briefly today due to bad visibility, but the base remained open. The Marin County Airport at Novato also was open today, but the office there said no one was flying.

On the ground, traffic was not disrupted, although commuters moved cautiously, the California Highway Patrol reported.

San Francisco International and Oakland International airports remained open in the early morning, but operations were hampered by the fog. San Jose International Airport was temporarily closed at 7 a. m. and planes diverted to other fields.

Scores of planes had to be diverted from San Francisco and Oakland airports Monday when fog closed the airports for several hours in the early morning.

Los Angeles International was closed from 1:10 a. m. for nearly seven hours today because of dense fog.

The closure was the third in 24 hours at Los Angeles because of the fog which has blanketed coastal and low-lying areas during the early morning.

The Los Angeles airport was closed for about seven hours Monday.

The Sacramento Metropolitan airport was open today but had been closed from 6:30 p. m. Sunday to 10:30 a. m. Monday by fog.

Police Assault Suspect Booked

A 22-year-old Mill Valley woman was booked into Marin County Jail Saturday on suspicion of assaulting a Sausalito police officer who made a routine traffic stop on a car in which she was a passenger.

Anita Elizabeth Lagercrantz of 11 Mountain View Avenue was arrested at 11:50 p.m. Friday on Bridgeway near Gate 6, police reported.

Police said Mrs. Lagercrantz got out of the car and exchanged words with officer Gary Reynolds as he wrote out the citation, then struck him on the forehead with her fist.

She was released on her own recognizance to appear Friday in Marin Municipal Court.

Probation For Pot Possession

Norman Novitsky, 25, no known address, and Ivan Kezsbom, 24, of Mill Valley, yesterday were placed on probation for two years for possessing marijuana.

The men were arrested in raids May 15, 1970, by police and narcotics agents on homes in Fairfax and Tamalpais Valley.

A half-ton of marijuana and $23,000 in cash were seized in the raids.

In sentencing the men yesterday, Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court went along with the recommendations of the probation department and the two men's attorney, J. Tony Serra, that they serve no jail sentence.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Joshua W. Thomas had recommended 60 days in jail for each.

Novitsky and Kezsbom originally had been charged with conspiracy to furnish and receive marijuana, but they and Michael Gene Ludwig, 28, of Tamalpais Valley, pleaded guilty last month to the lesser charge of possessing pot.

Ludwig is to be sentenced Feb. 2.

A fourth defendant in the case, Douglas Edward Rambo, 30, of Fairfax, has jumped bail and a warrant has been issued for his arrest.

Rate Hike For Use Of Center Is Under Study

The Rohnert Park Recreation Commission agreed last night that rates should be increased for use of the community center, but delayed setting the new rates.

Recreation Director James Pekkain said the center's basic use rate of $30 per day, last raised in 1969, could not keep pace with operational expenses. He recommended several possible rate schedules and the commission agreed that groups from outside the city should be charged more than local groups for use of the building.

Pekkain said the $30 rate could be increased to $55 for local groups and $100 for outside organizations. The maximum recommended was $75 for local groups and $140 for outsiders. He said the commission expects to set the new rates at its Jan. 24 meeting.

Rice Will Not Seek Reelection

Tiburon Mayor Denis T. Rice announced last night he will not run for a second city council term — the second Tiburon councilman to decide not to seek reelection this year.

Both the seats of Rice and Anne M. Ellinwood are to be filled in the April 11 city council elections. Miss Ellinwood announced in November she will run for the seat now held by Michael Wornum, Third District representative on the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Rice said his decision stemmed from the increasing work load of being a councilman and the conflict with his business. He is a San Francisco attorney.

He was elected to the council in 1968 and served as mayor pro tem the next year and as mayor in 1970 and 1971. He lives at 117 Hacienda Drive.

Door Opened For Balloting At 17

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—A ruling by the state attorney general Monday opens the door for many 17-year-olds to vote in primary elections this year, including Tennessee's first presidential primary.

According to the ruling, if a young voter will reach the legal voting age of 18 by the time the general election is held, he may register and vote in the primary.

BUSES

port; it's a whole new venture, and I'm confident they will do the job for us."

The general manager of the district, Dale W. Luehring, said last night's delays were aggravated by an unexpected 10 per cent jump in patronage yesterday morning, with over 5,000 commuters taking to the new buses from Marin and Sonoma, and because of the normally heavy traffic in downtown San Francisco.

Moving up and down the lines explaining the delays to commuters, Luehring said the district was working with San Francisco officials to get more curb space and a reserved lane for buses.

Last night's waits also were aggravated by an error in dispatching, he said, when four reserve buses were sent via the Civic Center route instead of to the financial district.

Luehring said the longest delays were for Mill Valley commuters. "That's the one place we're behind the eight-ball," he said, because patronage was growing far faster than expected. More buses have been added daily to the Mill Valley service, but yesterday morning many still had to stand, he added.

Some 600 boarded yesterday morning along the Mill Valley routes, swamping the total seating capacity of 540, he said.

Plea For Open Space Is Made

The Marinwood Park and Recreation Commission last night urged the Marinwood Community Services District board to insure that provided for in open space a proposed townhouse development is dedicated permanently.

The CSD board is to hold a special meeting to consider the proposed development at 8 p.m. tonight at the community center.

Recreation Director William A. Gordon said the park and recreation Commission last night also indicated it would like the developer of the townhouse proposal, Kaiser Aetna Co. of Oakland, to provide a public tennis court at the development at Las Gallinas Avenue and Miller Creek Road.

Another Try For Bike Funds

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Senate leader James R. Mills, a long-time bicycle buff, is making a second try at winning enactment of a bill raising $720,000 a year for local and state bike trails.

Mills introduced Monday a virtual carbon copy of his 1971 measure that was vetoed by Gov. Ronald Reagan on grounds it was "premature."

The bill would set aside $60,000 a month in revenue gained from extending the statewide sales tax to gasoline starting July 1. The revenue would be placed in a special account administered by the state Department of Public Works.

Another Dog Is Poisoned

The dog, which survived after being taken to a veterinary hospital last Thursday, was the fifth animal poisoned in the area in recent weeks, according to police. Officers said stry nine apparently was the poison used in all the cases.

Officers said Mrs. Smith let the dog out of the house about 8:30 a.m. Thursday and the animal went into convulsions about noon.

No-Tuition Bill Asked For POW Children

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill allowing children of American prisoners of war in Southeast Asia to attend the University of California and state colleges without paying tuition or fees was introduced Monday in the Assembly.

The bill by Assemblyman Wadie P. Deddeh, D-Chula Vista, also would allow children of soldiers killed or missing in action to attend the schools without charge. A similar bill was introduced last week by Sen. Clair Burgener, R-San Diego.

Unannounced Visit

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (UPI) —President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto flew to Afghanistan today in an unannounced visit to the neighboring kingdom.

Employee Group Seeks Veto Curb

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The California State Employees Association has launched its campaign to place before the voters a proposed constitutional amendment curbing the governor's veto powers over pay raises for state workers.

The initiative was submitted Monday to the attorney general, who must approve it before it can be filed with the secretary of state for a signature-collecting drive.

"We are taking this step because existing machinery for determining salary and benefit levels has broken down," said LeRoy A. Pemberton, CSEA president.

CSEA officials hope to begin circulating the initiative within 10 days. It would require the signatures of 535,000 registered voters to qualify for the November ballot.

NOVATO

Schoonover.

Commissioner James R. Gordon, district landscape architect with the state Division of Highways, abstained from the discussion and vote, and Commissioner Beverly Ehreth was absent.

Commissioners favoring the Burdell site said excavation at that location would do less harm than at any other potential sites that have been discussed.

Planning Director Brian W. Mattson said the quarry site, inactive since 1967, was in "horrible condition" with exposed rock, cut banks and spoil material "indiscriminately deposited."

The commission's recommendation will go before the city council tonight and the council's recommendation will be forwarded to the Marin County Planning Commission next Monday, since the site is in the county's area.

One of the commission's conditions was that Ghilotti Bros. be permitted to excavate only as much fill as needed for the bypass project, up to 1.2 million cubic yards.

"Mount Burdell is to North Marin as Mount Tamalpais is to Southern Marin," said Mrs. Wilhelm. "If you asked to take 1.2 million cubic yards out of Mount Tam, you'd be run out of town on a rail."

She said there were other choices for a borrow pit and "the highway is going to cause enough havoc as it is." She moved to oppose excavation at the mountain, but there wasn't a second.

Robert A. Roumiguiere, San Rafael real estate broker, representing Ghilotti Bros., said the proposed operation would obliterate old scars, clean up "this eyesore," and result in improvement to the site.

Mario Ghilotti, a spokesman for the firm, said the firm wasn't bidding on the bypass job, but wanted the fill to sell to contractors working on it.

Irving Perlman of 1581 Hill Road said Mount Burdell was of historic interest in the community and "the fact it may be slightly scarred doesn't advocate scarring and defacing."

The local hills "should be immune from scarring," Perlman said. Nature has started to heal Mount Burdell and "they want to reopen the wounds," Perlman said.

The grading site on the mountain would cover about 70 acres, according to Planning Director Brian W. Mattson.

After the commission gave narrow approval to the Mount Burdell site, it was almost a foregone conclusion that an application by Gordon H. Ball Inc., to excavate Reichert Hills was doomed.

Ball, a bypass bidder seeking a permit to excavate 600,000 cubic yards of material by dropping the hills from 161 to 50 feet, faced virtually unanimous opposition from neighboring residents.

Petitions, signed by more than 400 persons, were offered in opposition to the excavation, and the planning staff said the Novato general plan and recently adopted downtown plan both called for retaining Reichert Hills.

One resident apparently summed up the feeling of many when he said, "They should throw it (Ball's application) out completely." The response was applause.

The line resident speaking for the Reichert Hills plan was Edward T. Ghirardo of 213 Grande Vista, who spoke of the advantage of the firm's offer to donate several acres of land to the city for a park site.

Commissioner Richard O'Connell said "it would be disastrous" if the hill were cut.

About 50 persons were still in the hall at 1:25 a.m. when commissioners voted, 5-0, to deny Ball's application. Those remaining applauded the result.

VIETNAM WAR

on a reduced level. According to analysts, there are indications that the North Vietnamese are very much interested in trying to keep the heat on the administration into the presidential campaign period in order to try to wrest agreement on a withdrawal date and, hopefully for Hanoi, some help in achieving a coalition government in South Vietnam.

In a strictly military sense, the attacks now in prospect pose no great immediate dangers, sources here believe. Many sources remain convinced that Hanoi will not try go-for-broke endeavors now or in the months ahead. To these sources, it remains most likely that Hanoi will try to stir up trouble now, unhinge the allies somewhat, and cause general difficulties wherever opportunities arise. But the main efforts would be reserved for application if necessary after the Americans have gone.

There is no doubt that the buildup of Communist forces and supplies around the fringes of Military Region II has military commanders and advisers in Vietnam worried.

But, despite the Saigon concern as evoked in recent newspaper dispatches, there does appear to be little reason to expect that the Communists are so strong and the South Vietnamese and Americans so weak at any point in the field that the two allies are likely to suffer great military damage in the near future. More dangers are in the long run.

Obviously, the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong understand the limits of their power, too. This understanding largely explains the willingness to go ahead with something strong, as shown in the exhortations to the troops to remember Tet of 1968. But Hanoi's grasp of military realities is shown in the high-level decision to sharply limit the scope of major endeavors to specific geographical areas.

It is quite possible that the Communists will be able to do some damage before they are done with the current plans. Tay Ninh is close to the border and vulnerable to pressure by the thousands of Communist troops now in the larger region. Three divisions are estimated by sources here to be in the Chupp plantation area.

So far as Military Region II is concerned, Saigon has already demonstrated its concern by surfacing plans to use part of the nation's airborne strategic reserve to reinforce two not-well-thought-of divisions in the region.

With the American presence on the ground in the areas of potential Communist attack almost nil, defense this time, perhaps to the greatest extent so far in the war's latter years, will test the mettle of Saigon and its troops.

Lottery Bills Are Introduced

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Separate bills have been introduced in the Assembly and Senate by two Los Angeles Democrats to establish a state-operated lottery to help finance local schools.

The proposals by Assemblyman Leon Ralph and Sen. Mervyn Dymally represented the 1972 legislative session's first attempt to expand gambling in the state.

Similar bills authored by Ralph and Dymally last year died in committee.

A spokesman for Dymally said his latest proposed constitutional amendment was basically the same as last year's. That measure would have raised an estimated $26 million for schools.

Welfare Fraud To Be Probed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Formation of a task force to investigate welfare fraud in California has been announced by state Social Welfare Director Robert B. Carleson.

Carleson said Monday one of the initial objectives of the program would be to look into "large-scale frauds affecting public welfare funds and private surety and banking firms."

The task focce will consist of representatives of private industry, local government and banks, along with county welfare fraud investigators and state and federal officials.

MARIN CITY

looking to regain development rights — now held by Cal Development — to redevelopment lands in the heart of the community.

Today's board moves came in the wake of action last night by the Marin City Community Services District and Marin City Council in approving a resolution calling on supervisors to seek a grand jury investigation of the housing authority and redevelopment agency.

The resolution also calls for removal of the chairmen of the two agency boards and a county order stopping the agencies from signing over the ridgelands to Cal Development.

The supervisors said today, however, nothing would be solved by those steps. They decided to investigate themselves.

The county officials' trip to New York is expected later this month.

"I'm not satisfied that we can't do better than just mutual release (of property rights) with no conditions attached," Wornum said.

(The two agencies have said they will release the ridgelands to Cal Development and then negotiate on conditions. One such condition would be an option to buy back the property, but Marin City residents say Cal Development won't agree once it has the property.)

The Marin City Council and Services district board said last night the agency and authority have shown a lack of concern for "the desires of the local community." They also charged the agencies with failure "to negotiate in good faith with the community as they were directed to do by the board of supervisors."

On Friday the council and services district asked the agencies to meet with them last night, but the boards declined to do so. Last night's meeting was called after the boards canceled a community meeting scheduled for Thursday night.

At the time of the Marin City groups' request, Miller said his agency had "nothing to talk about. We've made our decision (to sign mutual releases)."

Yesterday Wallace K. Shepherd, executive director of the agency and authority, said previous community meetings "have been unproductive."

He said he has invited representatives from community groups to meet with staff and board members from both agencies to try to hammer out solutions to the current problems.

"I think it is time for us to sit down and try to come up with some preliminary agreement on all these matters and then present our proposal to the community as a whole," Shepherd said.

Mrs. Raznikov Asks Dissolution

The wife of 25-year-old Richard A. Raznikov, unsuccessful candidate last year for San Rafael mayor, yesterday filed in Marin Superior Court for dissolution of their marriage.

In her petition, Laurie Ann Raznikov said the couple was married in August 1967 on Mount Tamalpais. They separated in February 1970, according to the petition.

The couple has one child, Jessica, 3.

Mrs. Raznikov asked $75-a-month support for the daughter and additional money for attorney fees.

Raznikov, a law student, ran unsuccessfully against Mayor C. Paul Bettini last April. Raznikov was a delegate to the Democratic National Convention in 1968 and is a former student body president at San Rafael High School.

FIVE BUS DEPOTS 'SHOULD BE OPEN'

Transit Director Says Subsidies May Not Help Anyway—Two Already Closed

Marin's five bus depots should remain open, but their survival probably will require subsidies for the cities they serve, county transit district directors agreed today.

But one director, Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste, cautioned that the depots may go under regardless of attempts to save them.

The depots formerly made up to 10 per cent commissions under Greyhound's freight and passenger operations, but the new fare system of the Golden Gate Bridge District's bus operations offers depot agents very little income.

The bridge district not only eliminated the profitable one-way tickets the agents formerly sold, but cut the commission to 5 per cent.

Depots in Fairfax and San Anselmo already have closed. The other three, whose operators pleaded for financial aid, are in Mill Valley, San Rafael and Novato.

Kenneth Wehring, operator of the Novato depot, said a 10 per cent commission on the bridge district's commute books "would be a realistic figure."

Arguing against increasing the fee, H. Donald White, the bridge district's bus transit manager, pointed to the estimated $3 million yearly deficit for the new commuter bus system. "We're trying to catch all the revenue we can through the fare baxes," he said.

White added that the county's own bus transit plan, upon which the bridge district system is based, assumed cash fares would be paid aboard the buses — unlike the Greyhound system, which obliged passengers first to buy tickets from depot agents.

He also stressed that the district's system will go into residential neighborhoods, lessening the need for central depots.

Transit district directors resolved nothing in the dispute, but asked the staff to seek a solution by negotiating with the bridge district, depot operators and cities served by the depots. The staff was urged to report back to the board quickly, perhaps by next Tuesday.

Jim Rutherford from the Mill Valley depot pleading for quick help, argued that "a multimillion-dollar outfit" such as the bridge district ought to pay more than a 5 per cent commission.

Other appeals for aid came from Mill Valley City Councilman Jean Barnard and Edward T. Ryken, executive director of the Marin Senior Coordinating Council, which operated the San Anselmo depot.

Several spokesmen cited the value of the depots as shelters from the weather and as a piece offering toilets for the drivers. Mrs. Barnard said the drivers were "quite concerned" about the lack of toilets if the depots closed.

In a related discussion, White said a completely new bus commute schedule should be in operation by Feb. 6. It would be designed to assure more express service and cut down on waiting time at bus stops.

He also held out the prospect of expanded service by then, with tha first expansion expected into Sleepy Hollow and Peacock Gap.

Another change will be use of the transbay bus terminal in San Francisco for midday, night and weekend service, White said.

He also reported that an early morning run from the Tiburon Peninsula for persons due at work at 7 a.m. will be resumed soon, and that residential areas on the peninsula may get back the bus feeder service previously offered to the Tiburon ferry.

Marin Transit District Directors Also:

ELECTION — Elected Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. as chairman and Wornum as vice-chairman, the same positions they hold on the board of supervisors.

SUBSIDY — Asked county staff to seek official confirmation that the federal government has approved a $6.3 million grant to the bridge district for its bus system, so that the county can start its subsidies to Marin Transit Systems for experimental local bus service.

RAILROAD — Authorized staff to negotiate an option or lease for Northwestern Pacific Railroad's surplus right-of-way south of Corte Madera for transit use, the cost to be split with the bridge district.

FREEWAY — Heard a prediction from the transit district's acting general manager, James B. Robertson, that the state will approve lanes on Highway 101 south of Greenbrae for exclusive bus use during commuter hours.

Approval To Housing Idea

The Corte Mdera Planning Commission last night approved the concept of cluster housing in the Meadowsweet Station development after four months of hearings.

According to William G. McBride, zoning administrator, the commission unanimously but conditionally approved the planned unit development of 535 units to be built on 74 acres southeast of the H. Koch and Sons plant.

The conditions recommended by consultants Sedway and Cooke included leaving ridgetops undeveloped, installing a permanent greenbelt, supplying recreational space for the general public, providing separate recreational space for residents only in each of five development phases and cutting out planned businesses on a proposed extension of San Clemente Drive.

McBride said the developers, Warner Odenthal and E. C. Harter of Orinda, agreed to the conditions and to a stipulation sought by residents of Marin Estates that access to the huge project from El Camino Drive will be for police car and fire trucks only.

The plans for the huge townhouse development, which had brought considerable opposition in east Corte Madera, were approved without opposition, McBride said.

He said 80 or 90 persons attended the meeting.

Unless the commission's decision is appealed to the town council, the developers now can file a tentative development map and begin to seek approval of the design and layout of the proposed units.

Zoning Switch For Corte Madera Lot

The Corte Madera Planning Commission last night rezoned one 7.5-acre lot on Tamal Vista Boulevard and wished it could rezone another of similar size, according to the town's zoning administrator.

William G. McBride said the 7.5-acre site, which had previously been rezoned for apartments, was switched back to light industrial zoning by a 3-2 vote.

The land where Tamal Vista meets the Northwestern Pacific Railroad tracks had been zoned for apartments to allow building by Vail and Associates of Mill Valley. However, the firm was unable to arrange purchase from the owners, Stanley Weigel and Carl Priest.

McBride said the owners agreed to the rezoning, but commissioners David I. Freed and John W. Gates opposed it. They wanted a less dense multiple residential zoning, McBride said.

All commissioners, however, wanted light industrial zoning for a 7.8-acre parcel at 66 Tamal Vista, he said. The site, surrounded by Corte Madera, is unincorporated and was rezoned for apartment development by the Marin County Board of Supervisors despite town objections, McBridge said.

Johnny Ribiero Builders Inc. of San Rafael had submitted a plan to place 114 stucco and redwood units on the land, but the commission took only a cursory look at the plans, McBride said.

The plan was submitted to the town as a courtesy because Corte Madera plans to annex the site when it is developed.

The Corte Madera Planning Commission also:

CONTINUED — Continued to Feb. 14 discussion of landscaping San Clemente Drive and of the town general plan.

A-FRAME — Approved plans by Dr. William Filante of Kentfield to build an A-frame dwelling at 24 Summit Drive.

FEE — Decided to establish fees of undetermined amount for design review applications and set a public hearing on the matter for Feb. 14.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 8 p.m. tomorrow when a discussion of a housing statement for the town's general plan will be held at town hall.

Convict Missing At San Quentin

San Quentin guards were searching the prison today for a convict missing since yesterday afternoon.

Clyde Everett Hall, 29, failed to return to his job in the prison clothing shop following an appointment with the prison education office in mid-afternoon. He was reported missing at 4:30 p.m., according to Jospeh L. O'Brien, prison information officer.

A countywide escape alert was broadcast although Hall was believed still inside the prison walls.

Hall was sent to San Quentin last July 21 on terms of one-year-to-life and five-years-to-life for burglary convictions in Orange County. Hall was serving his third term in prison, according to San Quentin officials.

State Unit Hit On Spending

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The state Department of Public Works has been accused by a state senator of spending $127 million in federal safety funds intended for railroad grade crossing improvement on highway construction.

Sen. Alfred E. Alquist, D-San Jose, said the department's action ignored directives of both the federal government and the state legislature.

In leveling the charges, Alquist moved to make sure that federal funds earmarked for improving safety at grade crossings are spent for that purpose.

Youth Nabbed In Kidnap Probe

A Petaluma youth was arrested in Guerneville yesterday on suspicion of attempting to kidnap a 16-year-old Petaluma girl an hour earlier.

William L. McCrea, 19, of 165 Ellis Street, Apt. 9, was booked into city jail for investigation of kidnap and assault with a deadly weapon. He was scheduled for arraignment today in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

The girl told Petlauma police a young man approached her at 10:50 p.m. as she was walking on South McDowell Boulevard and forced her into his car at knifepoint.

She said she jumped out of the car as it turned on to East Washington Street. Sheriff's deputies arrested McCrea near Guerneville on the basis of the girl's description of her assailant and his car.

Hub Council Will Study Department Ties

The San Anselmo City Council will consider combining the city's parks and recreation departments back into a single unit when it meets at 8 p.m. today at city hall.

The departments have been split for more than a year, with the parks office under the public works department.

Fence Straddled On 2nd-Dwelling Plans

The San Anselmo Planning Commission said last night it could neither oppose nor defend a controversial citizens committee recommendation that second dwellings be allowed on some single-family lots.

Commission secretary Jean Ballou said the group passed a motion telling the city council it was unable to make an "intelligent and detailed analysis" of the citizens committee report without a housing element plan for San Anselmo.

The commission recommended that the council appoint another citizens committee to work on preparation of a housing element plan according to state guidelines.

The plan for second dwellings, prepared by a Citizens Committee on Zoning and Housing, was based on the committee's belief that allowing second residences in some cases would provide needed low-cost housing.

The San Anselmo Planning Commission also:

ZONING — Recommended to the city council approval of an application by John Komo for rezoning of two parcels, on Tunstead and City Hall avenues, from two-family residential district to neighborhood apartment district, on condition the two parcels be treated as one.

SCHOOL — Granted a use permit for operation of San Anselmo Cooperative Nursery School at 24 Myrtle Lane, on condition the school operate only between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. weekdays and that it meet requirements of the fire chief and building inspector.

VARIANCE — Granted a side-yard setback variance for Robert A. Ashby to construct a garage and residence on his property at 100 San Francisco Boulevard on condition that no structure blocks the view of adjacent property owners.

SUBDIVISION — Referred to Donald E. Wudtke his application for a three-lot subdivision in the vicinity of Oak Avenue and Chipman Place. Mrs. Ballou said the commission indicated it would prefer a two-lot subdivision.

Bid For Use Of School Is Rejected

The Marin City Learning Center's latest bid to use the Manzanita School in Marin City was turned down last night by the Sausalito School District board, Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg reported.

Mrs. Royce McLemore, president of the private school, appeared to ask the board to reconsider its Sept. 20 decision to deny the center's request to use the empty school.

Board members Delta Christ and Warren K. Hansen said they had not changed their minds since the original decision and refused to reconsider the request.

The school was closed this year when the district decided to locate all its students at Bayside and Martin Luther King schools.

The Sausalito School District board also:

CANDIDATES — Announced the following schedule of candidates nights at which five candidates vying for two board seats at the Feb. 1 election will speak: 8 p.m. tomorrow, at the Marin City branch of the Marin County Library, sponsored by the library; Jan. 20, 8 p.m., Central School, sponsored by the Sausalito Citizens Council, and Jan. 25, 7:45 p.m., Sausalito Women's Club, sponsored by the club and the League of Women Voters of Southern Marin.

TRAVEL — Heard from Lindberg that because of the district's upcoming tax election March 7, he has canceled plans to travel to Hawaii to head accreditation teams to evaluate two Hawaiian high schools.

AUDIT — Accepted the district's annual audit report prepared by Leader, Jarvis and Keigwin, San Rafael accountants.

Sunday Library Hours Defeated

A proposal to open the Mill Valley Public Library for two hours on Sundays has been voted down by the Mill Valley Library board, at least for the time being.

Directors had voted in December to open the library from 2 to 4 p.m. Sundays on a trial basis for the first three months of 1972 and met Saturday to hear from library staff on objections to the proposal.

Secretary Robert Urban said staff members objected mainly to working the extra hours, and the whole question was postponed to the board's regular meeting Thursday, when directors will consider opening the library four hours on Sunday and closing during the week to make up for the time.

Fatal Fire Perhaps Arson

A predawn fire in which a Tamalpais Valley woman died Friday may have been the work of an arsonist, the Marin County Sheriff's Department said yesterday.

Although cause of the blaze is still under investigation, Lt. Robert Godini said the department has "some evidence that would seem to point to arson." He declined to specify the nature of the evidence, but said the investigation will continue until "we can either eliminate or explain what we have found."

Jeanine Verplanck, of 116 Highland Lane, was killed in the fire at her home, apparently the victim of smoke inhalation. Two dogs and a pet cat also perished in the blaze which began in a downstairs bathroom, then burned through the bathroom ceiling and into the closet of Mrs. Verplanck's bedroom.

Annex Requests Will Be Heard

The Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission, meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Civic Center, will consider Novato's request for two annexations to that city.

One deals with 4.5 acres on Vineyard Road near Trumbull Avenue, the other with about 40 acres on Olive Avenue near Deer Island Lane.

Horsemen Gain Ally In Mill Valley

The Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Commission last night supported horse owners who are afraid Miller Avenue reconstruction between Reed and Willow streets will eliminate one of the principal horse paths across the city.

Commissioners asked that plans being prepared for the street realignment include provision for a horse crossing, according to Don L. Dimitratos, director of parks and recreation.

He said horsemen ride down Montford Avenue from Homestead Valley, cross Miller Avenue to La Goma Street, go down Sycamore Avenue and along Ryan Avenue and then cross Camino Alto to the horse ring near East Blithedale Avenue and Camino Alto.

From that point, horse trails fan out through the Alto and Scott Valley areas to undeveloped hills above Highway 101.

The commission also rejected an application by Island School, a Mill Valley nursery school, to use Old Mill Park for a fund-raising event in June.

Dimitratos said the school expected 1,000 persons to attend the event, and commissioners thought it was inconsistent with park-use policy to permit a profit-making venture to be held in a park.

Controversy over the use of Old Mill Park by large groups — particularly the Fall Arts Festival — has arisen in the past, and the commission is examining its park-use policy.

Citizens Groups Due Assignments

San Anselmo School District trustees will meet with citizen study committees today to discuss the duties of the committees.

The meeting will be at 8 p.m. in the library of Red Hill School.

The committees were set up to recommend cutbacks in school programs to head off an anticipated deficit next school year.

Hurt In Accident

Jean Loveless, 25, of Bodega, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for face cuts suffered in an accident at 7:30 a.m. today at Stony Point and Roblar Roads, Petaluma. The California Highway Patrol had no details of the accident.

Sick Leave For Orr Clerk Cleared

By C.P. McCARTHY

The Fairfax City Council agreed last night to drop a demand by its city administrator and city attorney that police clerk Marsha S. Kittelman see a city appointed doctor before she can collect sick leave for the month of December.

On a 3-2 vote, the council said Mrs. Kittelman should be paid immediately on receipt of two doctors' reports for each of two separate sick leave requests and further information on the nature of her illness for one of the requests.

Councilmen Lee Nelder and Robert R. Souza voted against the move, which came after 90 minutes discussion among the council, City Administrator Robert E. Crowe, City Atty. Wallace S. Myers and Mrs. Kittelman's attorney, Allan J. Weiss.

Mrs. Kittelman did not attend the meeting, but Weiss was flanked by her husband, Allen Kittelman, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Hennessy of Fairfax.

The police clerk has been a key figure in testimony during a hearing by the Fairfax Board of Review on an appeal by Police Chief James R. Orr of his firing by Crowe last Sept. 30.

She did not work Dec. 1 through 20 because, according to Weiss, she was anxious and unable to sleep and feared reprisals from disclosure in the board of review hearing of her undercover narcotics work.

Although she was prepared to return to work Dec. 20, she fell and fractured a vertebra in her back Dec. 18, Weiss said.

Crowe had refused to pay her sick leave, saying she had not complied with city regulations regarding sick leave and because she twice refused to see Dr. Harold W. White, the city physician.

Weiss argued successfully last night that the examination by the city physician was not required by city regulations, and that Mrs. Kittelman had met city regulations by submitting a letter from one doctor regarding her first period of absence and from two doctors regarding the second.

Under questioning by Nelder, Weiss refused to state why Mrs. Kittelman would not submit to an examination by Dr. White.

Myers last night advised the council against acceding to Weiss's request. He argued that the city could require an examination by its own doctor and charged that while Mrs. Kittelman was reportedly tog nervous to be at work, "she was out selling tickets to a well-known dinner."

He apparently referred to a fund-raising dinner for Orr Dec. 13 at a Fairfax restaurant.

Randall L. Garrison, one of the organizers of the dinner, last night accused Myers of making city policy and said it wasn't right for the attorney to be advising the council in connection with Mrs. Kittelman while he was acting as "prosecutor" against Orr before the board of review.

Crowe, defending his stand, said the first day Mrs. Kittelman was absent, her husband said it was because their child was sick. The second day it was allegedly "on the advice of her attorney," Crowe said, and it was not until the third day off work that a note was delivered to the city saying she was under a doctor's care.

Prior to the council vote last night, Mayor Cornelis van Vliet and Councilmen Frank J. Egger and Francis J. O'Connell defeated a substitute motion by Souza to give Myers and Weiss until Jan. 21 to resolve the dispute or the council would hold a special meeting to settle it.

The three then formed the majority to approve payment of the money.

Mrs. Kittelman's name has figured heavily in testimony during sessions of the board of review.

Among the charges against the fired chief are that he made Mrs. Kittelman a policewoman without authority, showed favoritism to her and engaged in improper social relations with her.

Board Of Realtors To Seat Slate

Donald Beacock, president of Earle and Solvason Inc. of Corte Madera, is to be installed tonight as president of the Marin County Board of Realtors at the Peacock Gap Golf and Country Club, San Rafael.

Other officers to be installed are William Lewis of Mill Valley, vice president; Bruce Wrisley of Mill Valley, secretary; Harold Strouss of San Rafael, treasurer, and Joseph Asiano and Donald Timmer of San Rafael and Frank Hanses, Jerrold Hickok and William Riley of Mill Valley, directors.

Stand Against Eel River Dam

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The state Fish and Game Department warns that construction of a big dam on the Eel River at English Ridge in Mendocino County could destroy the area's fish and wildlife resources.

In a report released Monday, the department also urged construction of a $3 million salmon and steelhead hatchery for the fishery and an expansion of study and planning to protect the thousands of birds and animals that live in the area.

A U.S. Bureau of Reclamation proposal for construction of the English Ridge Dam south of the proposed Dos Rios Dam has been under study by the department for more than four years.

Fairfax Will Supply Fund For Curbing

The Fairfax City Council voted 3-2 last night to spend approximately $2,000 for new curbing, gutter and sidewalk on a portion of a downtown street.

The move was opposed by Councilmen Francis J. O'Connell and Frank J. Egger, who said they would not support the project unless it was part of a new council policy on sidewalks.

It has been city policy, Egger said, that sidewalks were the responsibility of property owners.

But Mayor Cornelis van Vliet and Councilmen Lee Nelder and Robert R. Souza joined to accept the recommendation of City Administrator Robert E. Crowe that the city participate in the project on a 425-foot stretch of Broadway between Pacheco Avenue and Bolinas Road.

Pacific Gas and Electric Co. will pay $1,685 toward the project in connection with its undergrounding of utilities.

Van Vliet said he was supporting the city contribution because it was in connection with the utilities work and the fact that the sidewalk already had been ripped up by PG&E.

According to the successful motion by Nelder, the council will evaluate and consider participating in improvements to sidewalks in various sections of the city as the undergrounding project continues.

The Fairfax City Council Also:

PERMIT — Granted an encroachment permit for Mr. and Mrs. D. Thompson to construct a car deck on a city right-of-way at their property at 80 Crest Road.

APPOINTMENT — Approved van Vliet's reappointment of Gilbert Murphy to another four-year term on the design review board.

PAYROLL — Agreed to contract with Bank of America to take over the city's payroll services for about $40 a month. O'Connell voted against the motion, suggesting the city's staff should be able to handle the work.

RACE — Gave permission to the Marin County High School Bicycle Racing Committee to end a March 30 bicycle race from Nicasio along Broadway in Fairfax.

BRIDGE — Authorized awarding a $10,877 contract to low bidder John B. Sibbald Construction Co. of San Anselmo for construction of a new bridge at Bridge Court. Sibbald's bid was $16,204, but changes in specifications lowered the contract price. Ross Valley Sanitary District is expected to contribute $3,200 to the project because the bridge will carry one of the district's sewer lines.

STREETS — Directed City Engineer Ben C. Albritton to prepare final drawings and specifications for modifications at the intersection of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Broadway and Bank and Claus streets. O'Connell and Egger voted against the motion, saying the work would have a negative effect on downtown business and cause more traffic problems.

BUSES — Learned from Crowe that the Golden Gate Bridge District will extend its bus routes next week to the intersection of Olema Road and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard — a move requested by the council last month when the district announced service would terminate at Broadway and Bolinas Road, about two miles in from the new terminal point. The council also informally agreed with Egger's suggestion that a way be found to reopen the Greyhound bus depot in Fairfax, which was closed when the bridge district took over commuter bus operations.

Business Schools: Three Against The Image

STANFORD (BW) — If enrollment of women at business schools takes a big jump in the next few years, Stanford business school students Susan Phillips, Anne Thornton and Barbara West might claim some of the credit.

The three, who believe that management offers one of the most versatile career fields for women, have in recent months taken to the hustings in a self-styled effort to get more women to come to the business school. The trio's efforts are reported in the current issue of the school's alumni bulletin.

Their recruiting approach is somewhat unorthodox, but the three women claim it must be.

"Women are usually turned off about studying business because, to a lot of women, business is tied up with an impersonal corporate image," said Mrs. Thornton, who is enrolled in Stanford's business-law degree program.

"But not everyone at Stanford wants to work for General Motors," she said. "In talking to prospective applicants, we make it clear at the outset that business school training is a foundation for management in a variety of organizations, not strictly business management.

"WOMEN WITH a strong interest in the helping professions, for example, can apply business school skills to work in hospitals or non-profit foundations."

Mrs. Thornton, 23, is a Radcliffe College graduate. Miss Phillips, 23, a Stanford graduate student, plans to enroll in a Ph.D. program in psychology after graduation in June. Miss West, 32, who runs her own business directory advertising service in addition to carrying full-time studies, is a Reed College graduate.

Their interest in recruiting began when the trio — three of just five women in a class of 300 — got tired of being asked why they were studying business and decided to do something aobut it.

What they did was put together a 20-minute multi-media presentation with slides and a sound track to show to the entire school.

"It's exhausting to start at ground zero with every person who has any questions about women in the business school," Mrs. Thornton said.

"We put together the show so that we could say what we wanted to say in the way we wanted to say it, do it in an entertaining way and reach the widest audience.

"AS WE were putting it together, we realized that it might be used to recruit women to the school as well as to sensitize certain men to our feelings." In the show, which they've entitled, "What's a Nice Girl Like You Doing in a Place Like This?" they have synchronized a battery of slide projectors with a rock music sound track, using music and pictures as a backdrop to talk about their managerial aspirations and about what it's like being female in a male-dominated environment.

The women recently returned from a recruiting trip sponsored by the business school which included presentations of the show at women's colleges in the New York-New England area. Also included was a visit to Harvard Business School, where they discussed common problems with women students.

Reactions to the show have surprised and delighted the women.

"The school's awareness of women and women's problems has really exploded," Miss Phillips said.

"We felt very strongly that there was a need for active recruitment of women and, with our recent visit to the Eastern women's colleges, this has happened. The school has listened to our show and has been very supportive in arranging for meetings with various executive groups."

THE WOMEN say they've experienced different types of discrimination and pressure at the school. Some is out in the open, like comments from a handful of male classmates who tell them women have no right being at the business school since they are taking the seat of a man who might need the education to support a family.

Some are less direct. "There is strong pressure on a woman to say nothing in class because whatever she says tends to be examined very critically," Miss Phillips said.

"Our case studies in class carry implicit discrimiantion because women characters in the studies are seldom in management, and when they are, they are always single."

Some discrimination is hearsay, like reports of interviews with recruiting employers, during which women students are harassed by personal questions.

"One student last year got questions about whether she was on the pill, when she planned to have children, and the like," Miss West said.

WOMEN IN the school have gotten smarter about the need for solidarity, the three women agreed, and they use themselves as a case in point.

"It once was a form of flattery for a man to say: 'Well, you're not like the others. I don't know why the rest of them are here but you're attractive and really acceptable'," Mrs. Thornton said.

"Typically, relations among women are characterized by gossip and backbiting —the prevailing stereotype — but we're pleased that all the work we've done together serves as a model of women working well together."

Solidarity would seem to be far less of a problem now than in the past since enrollment of women, typically five or six a year in the past, rose to 21 in the class entering last September.

The three women, who reportedly were in touch with the 21 women accepted to the recent class, like to claim some credit for the increase.

"Before this, women may have felt that the only way to succeed in a mainly male environment was to emulate male patterns of behavior," said Miss Phillips.

"BUT WE see things differently. We've had more than 20 years of a socialization process that was different than men's. We do behave differently and we're not going to suppress our behavior patterns."

ULTRASONIC JUMPSUITS

Models display jersey jumpsuits designed by Rudi Gernreich and shown to the press at a luncheon in New York last week. The jumpsuits are made from experimental Trevira Polyester, assembled by Ultrasonic — a process by which the material is fed between a horn vibrating with silent ultrasonic energy and a specially designed stitching wheel. Frictional heat generated from within joins the synthetic material along the seams. Stripes are fused to the body fabrics, avoiding seam bulk, by a conveyor presser.

How To Keep Fat Off Child

(I-J Special Report)

NEW YORK — Today's overweight child — tomorrow's fat adult?

Medical evidence indicates that the prediction unfortunately comes true in a great many families.

In fact, according to recent research at the National Institutes of Health, it is now possible to judge as early as the age of 2 if a child will be obese by determining the number of fat cells in the body, reports the Health Insurance Institute.

The child of overweight parent or parents, medical studies show, is more likely to grow up plump than the child born to a leaner family. In other words, tendency toward overweight is often due to heredity.

However, according to doctors, reports the institute, even the genes can be tamed — and a great many youngsters can be helped — through a combination of proper diet an exercise.

MANY OVERWEIGHT youngsters do not necessarily overeat. In fact, they often eat less then their thinner friends. The problem with a great many children who carry extra weight is that they are not as physically active as other youngsters and are too lethargic to burn up what they eat.

So, unless the youngster's extra weight is medically diagnosed as puppy fat or prepuberty pudginess, which correct themselves later on — exercise, in most any form should be encouraged — for at least one hour a day.

Anything from ice-skating, roller skating, bicycling to swimming, rowing or jogging will do fine. Girls can also help work off their weight — and have fun besides through dancing classes.

Yet another part of the campaign to get rid of extra weight is a diet. High-calorie foods such as candy, jam, jellies, cookies and pies or caloric drinks should be considered nonos for chubby youngsters. No crash diets or too-didactic foods rules which may affect the child's growing process as well as his mental attitude — should be enforced, say doctors.

Cornelia Ripley Sias Engagement Announced

CORNELIA R. SIAS
June wedding planned

Mr. and Mrs. Roane Thorpe Sias of San Anselmo announce the engagement of their of Napa, to David Ross Lucchese of Sacramento. David, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Salvador F. Lucchese of Berkeley, is an administrative assistant to State Sen. Peter H. Behr.

Cornelia and David plan to be married June 24 in the garden of the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Barreda Sherman, in Mill Valley.

The future bride is the sister of Spencer Roane and Benjamin Barron Sias, both of San Anselmo. She was graduated from San Domenico School for Girls and the Univrsity of California at Davis. Cornelia teaches the fifth grade in Napa.

David is the brother of Gina Marie, Jon Ross and Robert Ross Lucchese, all of Berkeley. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. John S. C. Ross of Berkeley and Mrs. Rosa Lucchese of San Francisco. He was graduated from Berkeley High School, the University of California at Berkeley and U.C. Davis School of Law.

U.S., Europe On Same Wavelength

Today Europe and the United States are on the same fashion wavelengths, say fashion coordinators at Celanese, adding: "A report of either market would wind up with the same basic directions in fabric and silhouette. The key to the difference lies in the emphasis on those directions with their infinite variety of interpretations ..."

Sewing Center

A simple sewing center in the home does not have to be expensive. All that's needed to make it successful is organization —a place for everything you need.

The Fat Child

NEW YORK (UPI) "A fat baby is a healthy baby" is one old saying that is not necessarily true. A fat childhood can lead to an unhappy adolescence and an invitation to adult heart and arterial disease, say medical authorities. The pattern for overeating in adulthood may be set by parents who drill the "clean your plate" syndrome into their offspring.

Dufficys Move To Napa County

By MOLLY MARIN

Dr. and Mrs. Rafael G. Dufficy Jr. have moved from San Rafael to Napa County, where Doctor Dufficy supervises a "miniward" anti-drug program at Napa State Hospital.

After a year and a half commute, the doctor, a lifelong reuident of San Rafael, has signed a contract with the state for an eight-year residency in psychiatric work.

Dr. Dufficy has had a general medical practice in Marin since 1943 and found studying for his new specialty too demanding to allow time to continue the daily commute. The former county medical director and operator of a private hospital is a third-generation Marinite. His grandfather came to the county in pioneer days, and his late father, also a physician, practiced medicine in Marin when there were only five doctors to serve the entire county, and it took two days' travel with an overnight stop to reach a patient in Bolinas.

"By then the patient was either dead or getting better," the doctor recalled.

The Dufficy's have sold their 70-year-old home on Palm Avenue and will build a new one in the hills east of Napa. Four of their five children are married.

MRS. JEANNE Williamson Peabody is having a Super Bowl luncheon Sunday at noon at her home in Kentfield. The home will be decorated in football motif, and the 50 or so guests will watch the championship football game after the meal.

The party is to raise funds for Mrs. Peabody's bid for queen of the 1972 Mardi Gras Ball, sponsored by the Little Jim Club of Children's Hospital.

DR. AND MRS. Edward Shearman Ross (Sandra Miller Shugert) are living in Mill Valley. They were married Dec. 15 in Nevada City.

Breaking The Nail-Biting Habit: Readers Offer Their Solutions

DEAR READERS:

Several weeks ago we asked our correspondents how they broke the nail biting habit (if they had indeed conquered it).

You know, we think we're onto something good. At least a hundred people sent in success stories — and their suggestions may be just the thing to help some of you nippers out there. Before we publish the best answers let's start something going: a "How I Broke My Bad Habit" section in Generation Rap.

If you want help on conquering special nervous habits, write in, we'll publish your letters and ask for workable suggestions. Judging from the variety received on nail biting, we should round up some really great remedies. — HELEN AND SUE

DEAR SUE AND HELEN:

I stopped biting my nails one at a time. That is, I'd bite every nail but one, which I let grow and it was really beautiful. When I saw how great my long nail looked. I cut down on another nail, and then another, until finally I wasn't biting at all. Now, I use lots of nail polish which tastes terrible, and I'm real conscious of my friends' looks if my fingers creep up to my mouth. Their praise helped a lot, too. — NON NAIL NIPPER

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

I'm studying cosmetology and can tell you that one of the chief causes of nail biting is dryness. When the skin around the nail and the cuticle is dry and ragged, you feel better when you put it in your mouth and it becomes moistened.

Buy a tube of cuticle oil and massage daily. Carry a little tube of hand lotion. Invest in a series of manicures if you can afford them. Good luck.

P.S. Average nail growth is ⅛ inch per month so don't expect instant success. — SUTDENT

DEAR RAP:

Plan a good hour of nail care once a week at least. Keep those ragged edges emergy-boarded smooth. Follow all instructions for strong, supple nails. And remember — motivation is everything. If you really want nice nails, you can kick the habit. — DIANE

DEAR RAP:

Whenever I got an urge to bite my nails, I'd stick a piece of gum in my mouth. Also, I'd cut my nails so short I couldn't bite them. Pretty soon — no more urge. —EX-BIOER

DEAR SUE:

I quit biting my nails because my boy friend said they looked ugly. — L.T.

DEAR H AND S:

My nails were down into the quick so I asked my girl friend to help. Every day she checks them out. If they show improvement, she'll hold my hand. Otherwise, no. — IT WORKS

DEAR RAP:

Break old-fashioned toothpicks in half, tuck one such piece between thumb and forefinger so just a little protrudes, and bite this instead of your nails.

Switch to "Switchel" a tonic of hot water to which has been added equal parts of honey and vinegar, to taste. It helps the nerves, which are responsible for this kind of habit. — SIDNEY

DEAR H AND S:

That rotten tasting nail polish helps some kids, but it wouldn't do for guys, would it? Why not switch to a "rubbing rock" or something? When you've got something to do with your hands, they aren't in your mouth. — TIM

DEAR RAP:

False fingernails will help nail biters, if they really want to quit. — SUBMERGED URGE

Small Appliance Boom In Home

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) —The tremendous growth in the use of small appliances during the last 10 years also has increased the demand on the home wiring system.

Extension home specialist Mary Dale McGregor at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln says it is vital to see that enough outlets are present to allow use of appliances without the need for extension cords — and so called cheaters that permit the electric skillet, blender and coffee percolator to be operated on the same outlet.

How To Fight The Space Squeeze

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY
Distributed by General Features Corp.

The space squeeze continues. Families are finding that their share of available indoor living space is diminishing in square footage. As the big old flats and charming old houses are razed, the alternatives are high-rise apartments, new compact suburban houses or mobile homes.

The trauma of unloading possessions acquired during the late '50s and early '60s is a difficult one. So much of the furniture popular during that period was handsome in scale and rather weighty. We were in an expansive mood and the best of the Mediterranean, Jacobean, country French and English reproductions reached a high in favor among consumers. How do we squeeze them into tomorrow's interiors?

VERY FEW of us are sufficiently tomorrow-oriented to cope with changing life-styles. But perhaps we have learned something during the past 10 years: If we need furnishings that make a significant mark on an interior, we might look for pieces designed in a series or in components; pieces that can make an impression after they've been composed into one handsome unit.

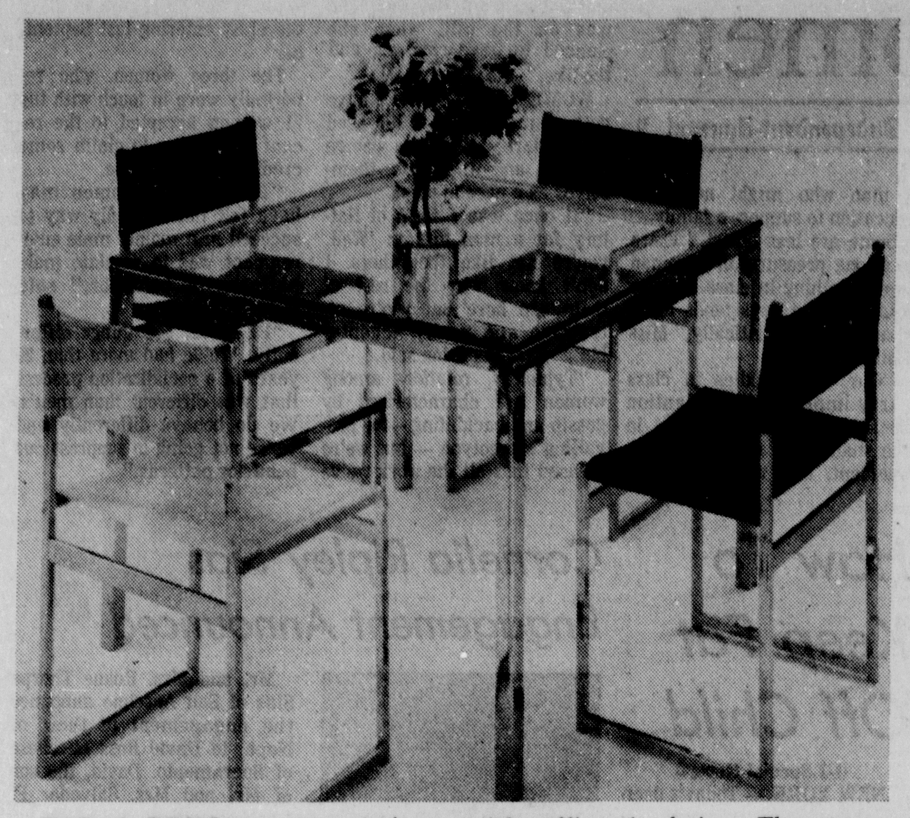
This same rule can work for tables as well as tall storage pieces. My favorite solution to the dining room problem of expandability for large entertainment sessions is the one where the hosts use two or three separate tables.

The tables might be the same size, such as two or three 40-inch squares, or they might relate in shape but be different in size. An example of the latter solution would include a long rectangular table, similar to a trestle table, and a shorter rectangle. For small family gatherings, the shorter table would suffice.

When guests were expected, the smaller table could be appended to the larger one in the shape of a T, or at right angles in the basic L-shape. Or the two tables could be set individually for more convivial conversation.

ANOTHER SOLUTION is a series of game-size tables. If four are purchased they can be manipulated in many geometric patterns including a giant square shape. When not needed for important occasions or bridge parties, they can be scattered throughout the house, fulfilling other roles as homework tables, sewing surfaces or lamp tables. The extra chairs can also find resting places in bedrooms and living room.

Scale was a special consideration in the design of the handsome chrome and glass table shown today. A 40-inch square, it was thoughtfully conceived for the more compact apartment-size dining areas. But, again, a series of two or three of these tables could solve any kind of dining space problem. The companion chairs are fashioned after British officers' chairs and are classics suited for any kind of interior.



FOR A TRIM apartment-size dining area or a more commodious space, try Craft Original's chrome-and-glass table and British officers' chairs. The see-through quality makes them seem to take up less room that they do.

Townhouse Bid Loses In Novato

The Novato Planning Commission last night rejected a bid to permit cluster townhouses in the Domingo Canyon area, where residents say they prefer single-family homes. (Another Novato Planning Commission story, page 1.)

Commissioners rejected an application by the Lear Siegler Inc., Trousdale Division, to amend the Loma Verde master plan to permit 104 townhouses on about 40 acres at the end of Montura Way.

They balked at the proposed density, 2.6 units per acre, as compared to the master plan density of two units per acre, or a total of about 80 units.

Attorney John A. Trumball, representing the Domingo Canyon Homeowners Association, said homeowners were unanimously opposed to cluster development.

Ian Mackinley, of Mackinlay-Winnacker, architects for the project, argued that cluster development would be less damaging to the area than single-family home development.

When commissioners mentioned delaying a decision until hearing a report from citizens on revisions to the Novato area general plan, Stan Nelson, project manager for Lear Siegler, asked if the panel were planning a moratorium.

"No, that's not the implication," replied Commissioner James Picchi. The vote for denial then was passed.

The Novato Planning Commission Also:

PUMP STATION — Approved a master plan and precise plan for a Novato Sanitary District pump station on the east side of Railroad Avenue, north of Olive Avenue.

CRAFT SHOP — Granted Gretchen Maitland a permit to operate a curiosity shop specializing in hand-crafted items in a building at the southeast corner of Grant and Scott avenues.

EXPERIMENTAL SHOP — Granted Trans-World Building Systems a one-year permit to operate an experimental and testing facility for building panel components in a warehouse at 5498 Redwood Highway.

FIREWOOD — Granted Russ Ferguson a permit to conduct outdoor sale of firewood on a vacant lot adjacent to Cain's Tire Co., 7090 Redwood Highway.

THEATER — By a 5-1 vote, granted Kenneth Rosenberg 18 additional seats at an approved 150-seat movie theater at Nave and Marin Valley drives. Commissioner Richard O'Connell dissented. The commission also granted him a permit for a free-standing illuminated reader board.

ELECTION — Officially elected John C. Schoonover, who has been serving as chairman since the resignation of Paul A. Oatis, as commission head. O'Connell was named vice-chairman.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned until 8 p.m. Monday at the community house for a hearing on revisions to the Scottsdale general plan, with the next regular meeting scheduled at 8 p.m. Jan. 24.

Old Square City-County Talks Set

A Marin County Board of Supervisors-San Rafael City Council committee will have its first discussion of city purchase of the courthouse square on Jan. 21.

The meeting is scheduled for 2 p.m. in San Rafael City Hall. Committee members are Mayor C. Paul Bettini and City Councilman Harry A. Barbier for San Rafael and chairman Peter R. Arrigoni and Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste from the board of supervisors.

The city council last Sept. 20 voted to set up discussions with the county on the purchase proposal, but no meeting yet has been held.

The city hopes to acquire the property on a deferred payment plan to make possible the purchase through regular revenue sources without a bond issue. The city took over maintenance of the courthouse square when the last county offices were moved to the Civic Center, and has installed new landscaping and an expanded parking lot since the old courthouse was destroyed by fire.

Clarinet Stolen

A $95 clarinet was stolen Thursday from the Mount Carmel Salvage Shop, 45 Lovell Avenue, Mill Valley, according to police. Officers said the building was entered by breaking a lock on the front door.

Chance Slim On U.S. Funding Of Library

There is scant possibility of federal funds toward expansion of the San Rafael Library, trustee Alice Dalbey reported at last night's library board meeting.

Mrs. Dalbey, who investigated federal library funding during a recent Sacramento visit, told the board the federal priority system makes funds virtually unavailable, except for new libraries which are consolidations of two or more existing systems or are parts of cooperative systems.

The San Rafael board hopes to expand the library on its present site at Fifth Avenue and E Street, and to retain the 1961 addition and as much as possible of the original Carnegie library building.

Feasibility of a small branch library in the Terra Linda annexation was questioned following a report by trustee Bryce W. Anderson that the city has no land in a desirable location on which a portable building could be installed. Costs of rented space, as reported by chairman Ella May Minneman, and of staffing, as calculated by head librarian Vivian M. Smith, caused board members to question whether such an installation would be worth the expense.

In other action, the board asked that the city purchasing department check on fire and static resistance of carpet offered by Jackson Furniture Co. of San Rafael, low bidder, before a contract is awarded for library carpeting. It rejected as too high the only bid for installation of the carpet, and asked that the city purchasing department negotiate for a bid less than $2,500.

Bad Check Case: Woman Jailed

A 23-year-old woman was arrested yesterday on suspicion of forgery and passing a bad check after she attempted to cash a reportedly stolen check at a San Rafael market.

Barbara Lynn Leon, no known address, was held at Marin County Jail in lieu of $2,500 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Police said employees at Lucky Market, 400 Las Gallinas Avenue, recognized the $119 check as one that had been reported stolen when Mrs. Leon attempted to cash it yesterday.

Employees held her for police.

Land Expert Warns On Strict Zoning

A University of California economist and land use expert urged county officials yesterday to adopt strict zoning regulations for the county's agricultural preserve area in order to halt "leap-frogging, hodgepodge development seen elsewhere around the state."

Addressing the Marin County Planning Commission, Dr. William W. Wood of U.C.'s Riverside campus said the county also should acknowledge that the primary purpose of the strict zoning is to protect open space and not the agricultural industry.

His comments came during the commission's latest stab at rezoning land within the preserve to prohibit development incompatible with ranching. Wood spoke at the meeting at the request of Marin County Farm Bureau officials.

The often delayed and continued hearing, to consider recommendations that parcels be rezoned to a minimum lot size of 20 to 60 acres, is expected to resume at the commission's Feb. 14 meeting.

The rezoning, concentrating on the preserve area in Northwest Marin, has been endorsed by conservationists and some dairy ranchers. It is opposed, however, by developers who prefer the present zoning of two and five-acre lots.

The rezoning would apply to all properties within the sprawling, 180,000-acre preserve whether or not they are under the agricultural tax shelter. About 95,000 acres are under the shelter.

"I don't think the basic issue is protecting agriculture, but rather land use . . . (and) its availability for some future use," Wood told the commission.

"If the question is, 'Can we protect agriculture?' the answer is 'no'." He added that ranching could serve as an "interim use" until the county wished to open up portions of the preserve for growth.

In dealing with developers opposed to closing the preserve to development, Wood said the county must take a position that it is "setting aside the area that you don't know how should be developed."

He added that forcing unwilling land owners into the Agricultural and Conservation District — as the agricultural preserve would be classified — would be legal since it would be in the public interest of best land use.

Wood's comments were received warmly by most commissioners with the exception of George P. Leonard, who pressed questions on the tax impact of devaluing land values through low-density rezoning.

Wood acknowledged that taxes would probably go up elsewhere.

Other speakers at yesterday's meeting included representatives from the county farm bureau, who said the group had not decided whether to support rezoning.

Also addressing the commission was Harold Gregg, executive director of the Marin Conservation League, who urged the commission to proceed with rezoning.

The Marin County Planning Commission Also:

MILLER AVENUE — After expressing some concern that the Miller Avenue Extension project near Mill Valley is "either dead or on ice," decided to ask the board of supervisors to reactivate the project by getting approval from the Bay Conservation of Development Commission to fill a portion of the marsh near Richardson Bay Bridge.

LUCAS VALLEY — Expressed disapproval of a proposed advisory planning committee of Lucas Valley residents to review projects proposed for valley communities. Formation of the committee is being considered by supervisors.

HOUSING — Approved an amendment to the county zoning code permitting the construction — with use permit — of multiple-unit low and moderate-income housing in single-family zones.

REZONING — Approved rezoning of a small section of property owned by Bert J. Sirvain at 8 Stetson Avenue, Kentfield, from single-family to multiple-family. The rezoning was needed to legalize existing duplexes.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to a special meeting scheduled for next Monday at 9 a.m. at the Civic Center.

The classes will run 7 to 10 p.m. for eight Thursdays at the society's gallery at the Marin Art and Garden Center, Ross. Further information is available by calling the society.

Society member Thelma M. Maas of Tiburon said other instructors have yet to be selected.

Elected Director

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Brayton Wilbur Jr., vice president and director of Wilbur-Ellis Co., was elected Monday to the board of trustees of the Asia Foundation.

Pleads Innocent To Two Counts

Frederick Robert Johnson, 52, of Novato, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to two felony charges stemming from his arrest in a neighbor's house Saturday night.

Johnson is accused of entering the house with intent to commit theft and rape. He was found in a closet by a 60-year-old woman who held him at gunpoint until police arrived.

The woman said she became suspicious when she came home and smelled cigarette smoke. She then armed herself with a pistol and searched the house.

A Candidates' Night Tomorrow

A candidates' night for Sausalito School District board hopefuls will be held tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Manzanita Community Center in Marin City.

Sponsored by the Marin County Library, the discussion will center around an Independent-Journal editorial which suggested performance contracting, made possible by passage of Assembly Bill 1483, as a solution to the financial problems of the school district.

Candidates in the Feb. 1 election are Betty J. Times of Marin City and Barbara J. Levy, Hugh G. Lawrence, Barbara S. Harris and Arlene M. Knudsen, all of Sausalito.

New Voters In State May Blunt Nixon

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A leader of a student voter registration drive by a group calling itself "The California Campus Coalition" says the effort will spell political trouble for President Nixon in the state in the 1972 election.

Jeff Gordon told newsmen Monday the registration campaign would make it "extremely difficult, if not impossible" for Nixon to carry the state in November.

Gordon, who was student campaign manager for the radical candidates who won seats on the Berkeley City Council last April, said the group would concentrate entirely on voter registration and not endorse political candidates.

But he predicted Nixon would have trouble carrying California because of the liberal political views of most college students. Gordon said 59 per cent of the newly registered 18to 20-year-old voters are Democrats, as opposed to 21 per cent of the young voters who are Republicans.

"I think the overwhelming majority of students will vote against Richard Nixon," Gordon said.

Gordon made his comments at a press conference where he appeared with Ed Mayfield, president of the Community College Student Government Association; Larry Siedman of the University of California Student President's Council, and Arnie Braafladt, student body president at Humboldt State College.

The youth vote, Braafladt said, would be "far more effective than demonstrating in the streets." He also predicted a series of "upsets" in local elections due to student influence.

Judge Eyes New Angela Venue Plea

PALO ALTO, Calif. (UPI)— Attorneys for Angela Davis again have asked for a change in the location of her trial, saying that it would cause "complete disruption" of Santa Clara County's court and jail systems.

The county already has allocated nearly $700,000 for jail and courtroom accommodations and security for the trial, scheduled to begin Jan. 31.

Miss Davis recently was moved to a Palo Alto jail from Marin County, 40 miles north, where she was charged with murder, kidnap and conspiracy in connection with a 1970 courtroom escape attempt and shooting in which a judge and three others died.

Defense attorneys, in getting the case moved out of Marin County, had specified they wanted the trial in San Francisco. Arnason selected Santa Clara County after an inspection of facilities.

Miss Davis, a former UCLA philosophy instructor, will be moved to the county seat of San Jose, a city of 480,000, if the trial goes on as scheduled.

Miss Davis complained of poor health last week and underwent a series of medical and dental tests which have not yet been released. She claimed her mental and physical health has been impaired by her 14-month confinement while awaiting trial.

Her attorneys and the American Civil Liberties Union have requested that she be released on bail until the trial begins. State courts have already turned down the request but a petition on the bail question is scheduled Wednesday in federal court in San Francisco.

Howard Moore Jr., Miss Davis' chief defense counsel, said the trial site should be changed again because Santa Clara County "is unable to cope with the trial of this case without the expenditure of extraordinary sums of money and the complete disruption of its usual court and jail systems."

Andrew Wyeth Will Paint The President

CHADDS FORD, Pa. (UPI)— At the request of Pat Nixon, noted American painter Andrew Wyeth has agreed to paint the official portrait of President Nixon.

"She personally asked me to paint her husband's portrait and I agreed," said Wyeth, who was authorized by the White House Historical Association to make the announcement Monday night.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Cirrhosis Of The Liver Is A Leading Cause Of U.S. Death

Cirrhosis of the liver is a leading cause of death in this country. We believe that it is the direct toxic effect of alcohol on the liver after 15 to 20 years of heavy drinking. However, some of the victims to not have a history of alcoholism. More puzzling than this is the fact that only one in 12 boozers develops the disease. Heredity, or individual susceptibility to alcohol may play a role.

In cirrhosis, the liver cells are destroyed and healing is followed by the formation of inelastic scar tissue. The organ tries to regenerate itself, but fat infiltrates the liver substance and displaces functioning cells. If there is enough fat, the organ may become enlarged and sensitive to the touch. With continued drinking, the fat absorbs, and the cells are replaced by scar tissue.

NODULES FORM, giving the cirrhotic organ its nickname, hobnail liver. Scar tissue contracts as it ages. The process closes off the blood vessels in the liver, as well as those passing through on their way to the heart.

At this stage, there may not be enough cells to enable the organ to perform its function of detoxifying poisons (including alcohol), storing nutrients, and manufacturing dozens of enzymes and chemicals, including those that help the blood to clot. Blood tests offer evidence of this, but liver biopsy obtained with a hollow needle offers more information.

By this time, the victim is aware of increasing fatigue, loss of appetite, weakness, weight loss, bloating, and spider-shaped blood vessels over the liver area. Redness of the palms and contractures of the hands may also occur. Or perhaps he is beginning to develop the complications of cirrhosis that usually stem from the blocked blood vessels in the shrinking, and hardened liver. The abdomen is distended with fluid, and the ankles are swollen.

THE BODY attempts to bypass the obstructed vessels by shunting blood through the veins of the esophagus and upper stomach. These enlarge and usually bleed, often fatally. Coma due to toxicity may also ensue. These complications are treatable but add little to the life span. Liver transplants, although not yet done, may offer more hope in the future.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.

ATHLETICS AFTER HERNIA

A. B. writes: Is it safe for a 15-year-old boy, who had inguinal hernia repair a year ago, to participate in high school athletics?

REPLY

Yes. A firm scar usually forms within six to 10 weeks after a hernia operation. Most hernias are congenital, and at this age merely correcting the defect is followed by a rapid cure.

LAXATIVE HABIT

D. S. writes: Would it be possible to control a lifelong laxative habit in a person over 80?

REPLY

Yes, but since it agrees with you, why try?

MARCH FRACTURE

F. R. writes: What is soldier's fracture?

REPLY

Four School Districts Set Holiday

Pupils and teachers in four Marin County school districts will have a special holiday Friday.

In Tamalpais High School District and Fairfax Elementary School District, Friday has been designated as "Black American Day" to honor the contributions of Negroes to the nation.

In Mill Valley and Sausalito Elementary School Districts, it has been designated "Martin Luther King Day" in honor of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., Nobel Peace prize winner who was murdered April 4, 1968, in Memphis, Tenn., by James Earl Ray. Saturday will be the anniversary of Rev. King's birth.

Robert E. Spain, assistant superintendent of Marin County schools, said the holiday had been included in school calendars adopted last August by the four districts.

The California Legislature in 1970 set aside a day in March to be observed in schools as "Black American Day." No district in Marin County has indicated intention to close schools for that observance however, Spain said.

Lower Servicemen Fares Are Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Pan American Airways has asked the government to approve new lower fares for servicemen and their families traveling between the West Coast and Asia.

The new fares, which would be effective Feb. 15, would cut the round trip ticket for a serviceman going from the West Coast to Tokyo to $297, compared with the present $518. The servicemen's Hong Kong fare would drop to $385 and the tariff to Formosa would be $469. Vietnam fares would not be affected.

Behr Proposes End To Secret Voting

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SACRAMENTO — Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael — breaking the tradition that newcomers do not tamper with the Legislature's hallowed traditions — today proposed rules changes to strip committees of the secret vote.

Legislative committees commonly vote by voice or even more anonymous signals such as a lifted finger or eyebrow. Thus, the public has no way of evaluating voting records.

Votes on the floor of both the Senate and Assembly are recorded, but the most significant votes — killing bills or voting on amendments — often occur beforehand in committee.

Behr, in his first measure of the 1972 session, proposed a concurrent resolution requiring all committee votes to be recorded in the Legislature's daily journal.

His proposal first would have to survive tests by both houses and their rules committees.

Even then, it would be in effect only for the 1972 session, and would have to be readopted by succeeding legislatures to stay in the rules.

The practical effect of such a rule is unclear since a similar one was ignored for 12 years unitl it junked in the 1971 session.

Behr said his proposed rule would "Lay to rest the public's suspicion that on occasion chairmen don't tally the voice vote correctly, and will provide a public record which will permit constituents to know and evaluate the most important voting records of a legislator — in committee, where the action is."

He conceded that his proposal was "bound to stir up my colleagues."

In an interview with the Independent-Journal on this his new program, Behr stressed it was still in the drafting stage because the 1971 session did not end until mid-December.

His majro fight will be a renewal of his unsuccessful move last year to preserve the Eel, Trinity and Klamath rivers in their natural state.

Several estuaries elsewhere along the coast, probably Tomales and Newport bays, will be added to the bill this year, Behr said.

He predicted passage this year, citing growing support that blossomed too late last year. He believed his cause would be helped by the fact that 1972 is an election year and by the Reagan Administration's awareness of the "growing concern and impatience of the people with the progress made so far in the environmental field."

Other bills being drafted by Behr ranged from bicycles to tax relief, and included:

VENEREAL DISEASE — Require premarital testing for gonorrhea. Behr said the present requirement that tests be made only for syphillis was a selective requirement that predates the current gonorrhea epidemic.

PROPERTY TAXES — Allow a three-year moratorium of increased property taxes on home improvements up to $10,000 per home, provided that the improvements were done under a building permit. A similar bill last year by Behr was killed because of opposition from county assessors. The senator said that part of the tax loss would be recovered by increased taxes on improvements now done without building permits — work that also can be unsafe because it is not subject to inspection.

INCOME TAX — Replace separate state income tax forms with a requirement that taxpayers instead file a copy of their federal income tax returns with the state, thus simplifying the procedure.

COAST — Establish a system of marine reserves along California's coast to include such environmental treasures as Duxbury Reef and the shoreline of Point Reyes National Seashore. The latter would take federal action as well. Some fishing and clamming could be allowed, Behr said, but such a bill would "Proscribe the casual taking of marine life" that he said threatens to strip such areas of all life.

BICYCLES — Require bicycle manufacturers to stamp identification numbers on their products sold in California with the numbers stamped so that they would show attempts to tamper with them, and stamped on all major parts to prevent pirating for illegal sales.

MARIN — Remove Shoreline Highway from the state's freeway and expressway system to "assure that this fragile coastline no longer will be subjected to the threat of an expressway or freeway." But Behr said he would introduce such a bill only if asked by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Apartment Ordinance Due Hearing

The Larkspur city staff and planning consultant Sydney H. Williams are working on a new zoning ordinance for apartments planned in the community.

The updated ordinance will be ready for a public hearing before the planning commission Jan. 25, City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst said today. He said the ordinance governing R-3 zones would be adopted by the city council March 1 if no hitch develops.

The study of changes in the present ordinance began after the council on Dec. 28 approved a 224-unit development on Bon Air Hill that pointed up lack of controls in the present ordinance.

Revision was backed by a petition containing 135-140 names submitted at the council meeting Tuesday, Bathurst said. The petition, authored by council candidate Joan Sestak, said, "It is time we stopped drifting from crisis to crisis under loose, antiquated ordinances that fail to distinguish between level and steep land and between land and water in computing density."

The Bon Air Hill development of Larwin Multi-Housing Corp. met requirements of existing ordinances, but consultant Williams said it was too dense by 10 per cent because 30 to 40 per cent of the 12.5 acres is too steep for use. He pointed out the ordinance does not distinguish between steep and level land.

Another bone of contention was the parking requirement. Although on-street parking in the Larwin project will be down a steep bank, it still qualified as usable on-street parking under the existing code. As a result, fewer on-site spaces were required.

6 Condominiums, Pizza Parlor On Plans List

The Larkspur Planning Commission will consider approving the design of a proposed Straw Hat Pizza Parlor and six condominiums at its regular meeting today.

Meeting at 8 p.m. at city hall, the commission will review plans by John A. and Estelle Moran to build the six units along Corte Madera Creek at 825 South Eliseo Drive and then consider the plan of Design Services Inc. of Menlo Park for a pizza outlet on the creek bank next to Bon Air Bridge and the Safeway food store.

Also to be discussed are details of a 224-unit apartment development proposed by Larwin Multi-Housing Corp. of Beverly Hills. The building on Bon Air Hill was turned down by the planning commission, but approved 3-2 by the city council Dec. 28.

SPORT NOTES

Kapp Views Self As Gridder First

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Joe Kapp says he's a football player first and an actor second. The boss of his first try at acting says Joe has a bright future of acting if he stays away from the football field for good.

Kapp is appearing with Fess Parker in a movie being shot in McCloud, near Mount Shasta in the beautiful Sierra. Nick Kobseff, who ran Rancho Nicasio restaurant in West Marin for years before moving shop to McCloud a few years ago, opened up his McCloud River Inn for a party for the entire cast last night.

BY LONG DISTANCE telephone during the party, Kapp, the quarterback who led Minnesota to the Super Bowl one year and couldn't get together with management the next, said he is hoping to get back to football, "although I'm really having fun making this picture."

Kapp played out his option and the Vikings wouldn't pay him as much as he thought he was worth, so he signed with the New England Patriots but National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle said Joe couldn't play. Apparently it wasn't a standard NFL contract and Rozelle squashed the deal. Joe was left out in the cold so he turned to new things — like acting.

"I'M JUST DOING the best I can at this," Joe said last night. "No matter what the job is I try to do the best I can."

The movie is a two-hour NBC-Warner Brothers film for television entitled, "Climb an Angry Mountain," and is being produced by Herb Solow, a man who used to run things at Desilu Studio. He's produced a barrel full of successful TV series such as "Star Trek," "Medical Center," "Then Came Bronson," and "Courtship of Eddie's Father."

According to Solow, the film is about a sheriff (Fess Parker) and his family life as widower and rancher. He has a daughter, 13, who is mentally retarded, and a son, 10.

"It's definitely not a cops and robbers thing," said Solow. And he has hopes it will turn out to be more than a one time thing, as it's a pilot film for a potential series.

ABOUT KAPP, Solow said, "I'm happy with his performance. I think he can make it as an actor . . . he's doing a helluva job for us. If this turns into a series I would like to have Kapp back with us."

Parker was a football player in high school (a 6-foot-6 end) but by the time he got to University of Texas he had decided on acting as a career. I asked him whether he thought he had been typecast in his television roles as Davy Crockett and later Daniel Boone.

"Yes, and I think I'm fortunate for it. I don't play Shakespeare."

Next on the telephone was Barry Nelson, an actor imported from New York to play the part of a New York detective. "It's beautiful up here. I'm away from all that carbon monoxide and get to smell the sweet air and drink the sweet water. But I haven't always lived in New York. Like Kapp, I too, went to Cal, but for some reason I never got further north than the Russian River."

KOBSEFF HAS a scene in the movie and all he has to say is one line: "Sheila!"

"It took 13 takes to shoot that one part," Kobseff laughed, "because they kept saying, 'Get that crack out of your voice!' Hell, I've been talking this way all my life!" And if you've ever heard the Kobseff voice, you know what he means.

Kapp said he is finding that acing is a much more physical job than he thought. "At least this part is," he said. "I'm climbing over hills, hiding, fighting the elements of cold and snow." It sounds more like a football game.

As far as his football future, Kapp was hesitant about talking about it. "It's in the hands of my lawyer, John Elliott Cook. Mr. Rozelle said I couldn't play, so I'm not playing."

Well, Joe will be playing on the slopes of Mount Shasta for a few more days (filming is due to end Jan. 22) but will have more waiting to do before getting back to the football field.

Indiana Makes Bid For DeMont

By PAUL CANE

For Rick DeMont, a 15-year-old high school junior, and one of Marin's resident swim phenoms, it's becoming a password, like, "Have Gun, Will Travel."

Blossoming from little more than an unknown on the national swimming scene to probably the hottest and fastest-developing distance freestyle commodity in the U.S. in one glorious summer, DeMont is being actively sought by nearly every major swimming college in the nation, including the giant of them all, Indiana University.

PROMISING

DeMont led a promising Marin Aquatic Club assault on some of the bigger names in U.S. swimming with a Pacific Association (AAU) record in the 1650-yard freestyle Sunday at a San Francisco State College senior swim meet.

DeMont's time of 16:17.4 edged the previous record of 16:20.0 held by Rex Favero of Arden Hills, Calif., whom Rick resoundingly defeated en route to the new mark.

'FINE EXAMPLE'

Nor was DeMont the only performer to shine. Jo Hislop, 16, sprinted to a 2nd place, 55.9 Women's 100-yard free, and followed with a 6th place, 1:59.2 in the 200. According to Swartz, a sub two-minute 200 free (for women) is like the four-minute mile used to be for men. "It's a barrier. It was a most significant accomplishment for me as a coach to be associated with."

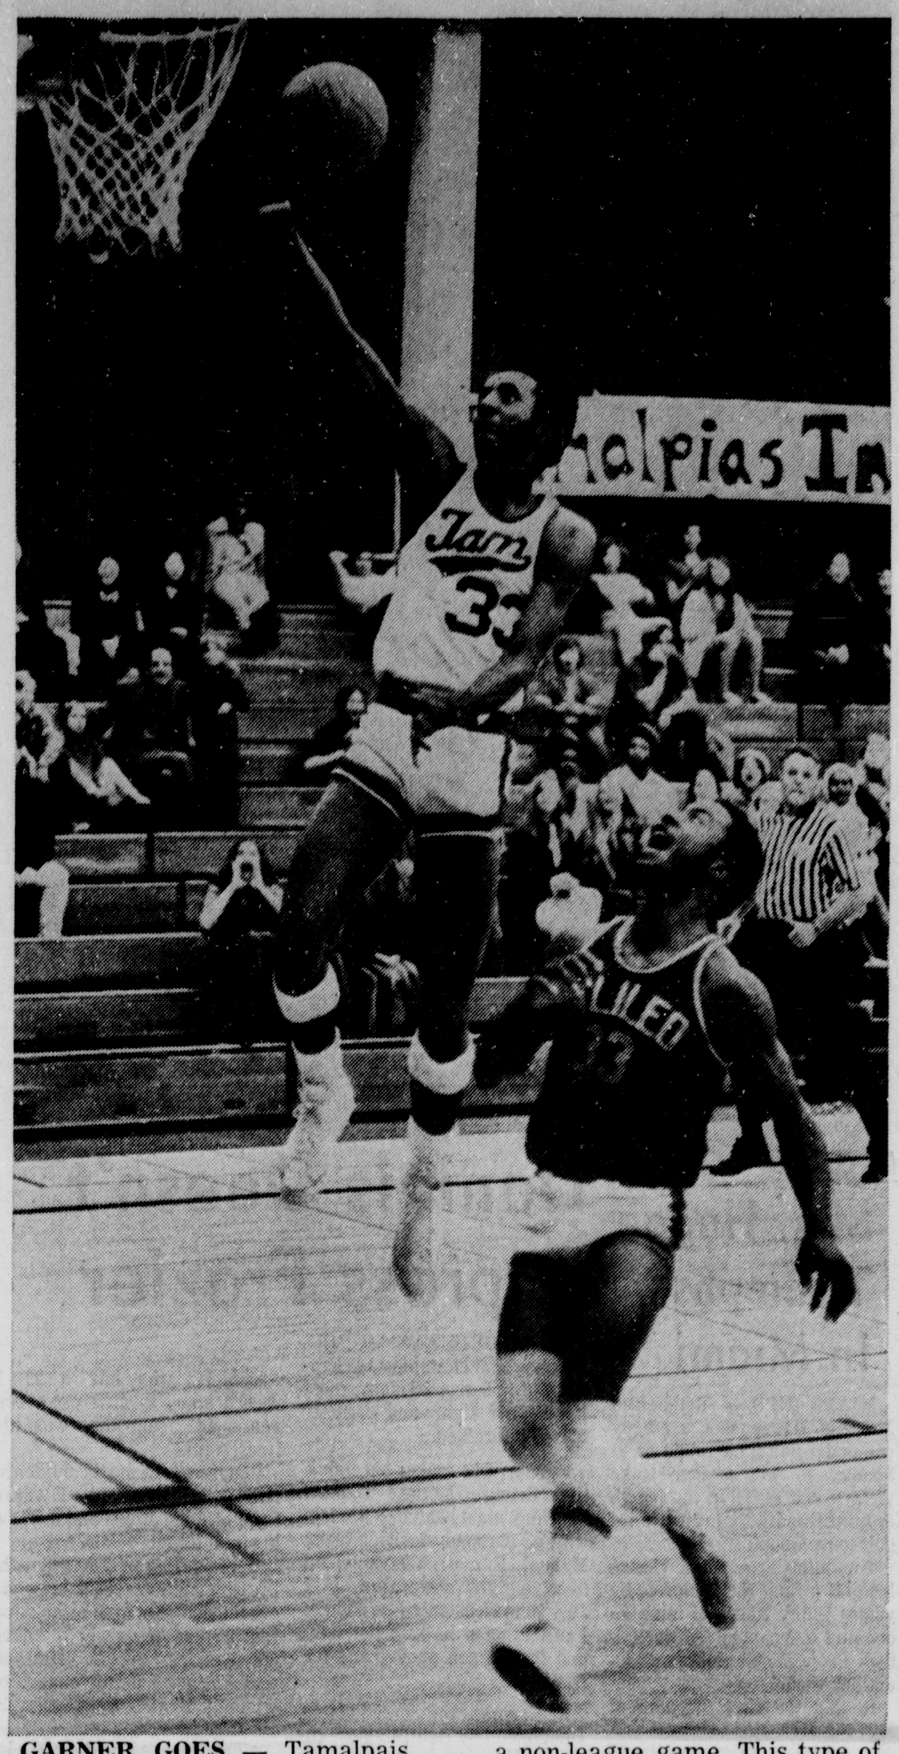
Garner Ponders Transition



GARNER GOES — Tamalpais High School basketball star Will Garner drove for a layup against Galileo High of San Francisco in a non-league game. This type of performance enabled Garner to gain Independent-Journal Prep of the Week honors.

Tam Star Seeks Job As Guard

By LEW CODDINGTON

Fans who attended Tamalpais High School's basketball game with Terra Linda last Friday probably still can remember Tam's Will Garner, slipping inside like some kind of lanky shadow, scoring 28 points and grabbing 18 rebounds.

"What a devastating post man," they thought to themselves, happily if they attended Tam, glumly if they went to Terra Linda. "There's no way to stop a good big man underneath."

"I'd rather be a guard," said Garner yesterday in an interview after being named Independent-Journal Prep of the Week for his efforts.

A What?

"A guard, like Walt Frazier or Earl (The Pearl) Monroe," he repeated.

"No, man, look. There are a lot of 6-foot-4 guards around. Six-five, too. And jumping ability? Man, those dudes can sky."

Wherever they are, they certainly aren't in the Marin County Ahletic League. Nor in college, with a few exceptions. But Garner is thinking of the pros already, and he knows that a 6-4, with (he figures) not too much more growth to go, guard is his spot.

Nobody is betting against him. "He's a hungry player," said Tam coach Bernie Schneider. "Not too much slows him down. He certainly has the agility and speed to play guard. But for us, he's just too valuable around the bucket."

Indeed, Garner's problems may be that he's too talented for his own good. Schneider simply can't afford to play him outside when he was able to average 21.9 points a game last season in the MCAL playing one of the two low-post positions in Tam's offense. His average was easily the best in the league, and this year he's at it again, scoring at a 21.8 clip through non-league action.

Garner came to Tam last season from El Paso, Tex., sixguns blazing. Or perhaps a rifle would be more appropriate. His father, a First Sergeant in the Army, had just come back from a tour of duty in Germany and was stationed at the Presidio.

They settled down in military housing at Fort Baker. Fortunately, there was a gym nearby, and Garner spends close to every free waking hour shooting buckets with his brothers. That is, when he's not viewing basketball on television. Or watching the Warriors play in

Mrs. King Receives Top Spot

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Defending champion Billie Jean King has been awarded the No. 1 seed and will meet San Francisco's Ceci Martinez as her first round opponent in the $17,000 British Motors Pro Tennis Championships.

In Wednesday afternoon matches, Helga Masthoff of Germany meets Australia's Helen Grouloy; Franciose Durr of France goes against Valerie Ziegenfuss of San Diego; Kerry Melville of Australia against Mary Anne Eisel of St. Louis; and Julie Heldman, Houston, meets England's Virginia Wade.

Wednesday night it's Pam Teeguarden, Los Angeles, against Rosemary Casals, San Francisco; Judy Dalton, Australia, against Marcie Louie, San Francisco; and the King-Martinez conclusion.

Jenkins Signs '$125,000' Chicago Pact

CHICAGO (UPI) — Chicago Cubs pitcher Ferguson Jenkins will be paid more than 100 grand annually for the next two years under a new contract announced by the Cubs Monday.

The lanky, Canadian-born Jenkins reportedly will be earning $125,000, but the Cubs refused to specify his precise salary.

Jenkins, 28, thus becomes the highest paid Cub in history, moving ahead of teammate Billy Williams who became the Cubs' first $100,000 a year player last year.

NINE QUALIFY

Ken Carter Top Kegler In Tourney

Apparently anxious to prove they were rated too low, Gerri Gravel and Ken Carter rolled the highest series in the Bowlers Victory Legion tournament's second round last weekend at Nave Lanes.

As a result, they and seven other divisional winners earned trophies and a chance to go to the state finals in San Jose April 14.

Last year, some 3,376 Marin County bowlers chipped in $1 a head and rolled qualifying scores in their regular leagues. The money went to benefit veterans hospitals across the nation. The top 400 or so bowlers met at Nave Lanes Saturday and Sunday, where they were divided into five women's classes and four men's classes according to average.

Gerri was in the women's "A" class, the second-highest group. She soothed her ego by rolling 599, missing the coveted 600 plateau by just one pin but topping all other women.

Ken was in the men's "B" class, the second-highest group, but rolled a 656 series to outdistance everybody. His effots included a 263-game, best of the tournament.

George Archer Gains Campbell Open Win

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —Take a guy 6-feet-6 and 200 pounds and he looks like any kind of an athlete but a golfer.

Despite his size—his tree-limb forearms and hands like the proverbial hams — big George Archer has a sensitive touch when it comes to putting.

He didn't drive too well Monday in the 18-hole playoff for first money of $25,000 in the Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open, but his putting paid off—he shot a five under par 66 on the Rancho Park Muni course to beat Tommy Aaron and Dave Hill by two strokes.

He took just 28 putts, had six birds and one bogey on his round of 32-34. He was wild from the tee on the fifth hole, driving the ball off to the adjoining fairway but he saved par by sinking a 15-foot putt.

The key hole, however, was No. 17, a par three, 216 yards. Archer hooked his tee shot to the left and it landed behind a maple tree. He was five under par at the time but Aaron was on the green six feet from the pin.

Archer hit a low seven iron and his ball slid past the hole about six feet.

Hill, erratic but dangerous as usual, had six birdies and three bogeys on his round of 34-34—68. "It's a long time since I shot five rounds of 70 or better and I've got to be pleased with that," said Hill who on Saturday claimed he hated the game of golf. "I've been beating that little white ball around since I was 8 years old and I'm tired," he said at the time.

Aaron, who has won only two major events in 11 years as a pro but has earned more than half a million dollars, took his loss with class, "I had opportunities but I didn't make the most of them," he said.

Sharon Walsh Grabs First Round Victory

Sharon Walsh of San Rafael defeated Christine Marais of South Africa yesterday, 3-6, 6-4, 6-1, in the first round of the Sugar Tennis tournament in Durban, South Africa.

Durban is the last stop on South Africa's sugar circuit.

Golden State Hosts Cleveland Tonight

OAKLAND (UPI)—Now that the Los Angeles Lakers have shown they can lose, maybe the Golden State Warriors can gain some ground in the National Basketball Association Pacific Division. They can start tonight against Cleveland in the Oakland Coliseum arena.

The Lakers lost Sunday, and the Warriors won their sixth straight, defeating Houston 113-112, to gain on Los Angeles for the first time in 10 weeks.

Now Golden State only trails the Lakers by 15, but they are closing in on the second place Seattle Sonics, who are one game ahead of them.

The Warriors, led by the hot shooting of guard Jeff Mullins, forward Cazzie Russell and center Nate Thurmond, are on their longest winning streak of the season and only two short of the team's all-time high since moving to the West Coast in 1967.

The Cavaliers won only 15 games last year, but they are a much improved team this season and already matched that total this year.

Teachers, Sharks Win In Adult Cage

Bret Tovani poured in 21 points to lead San Rafael Teachers to a 66-58 victory over First American Title yesterday in the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department adult basketball league.

San Rafael Trio Gains Top Five AAU Rankings

WHA BIDS FOR WING

Seals Return Home, Gilbertson May Roam

OAKLAND (UPI)—The California Golden Seals returned home Monday after a disastrous one-game road trip amid reports that one of their players may jump to the fledgling World Hockey Association.

A newspaper in St. Paul, Minn., reported that Seals' left wing Stan Gilbertson and two other National Hockey League players have signed with the WHA, which is supposed to begin operation next season.

"I understand the WHA has talked to several players on all of the teams in the NHL," Finley said. "I know some of our players have been contacted, but I don't want to name them. But as to signing contracts, I know nothing about it."

Gilbertson, a rookie who has scored nine goals in a starting role this season, was unavailable for comment.

The Seals, who host the Vancouver Canucks Wednesday night in the Oakland Coliseum arena, returned home after a humiliating 10-3 loss Sunday night to the Philadelphia Flyers.

Broadcaster Woods In Oakland A's Fold

OAKLAND (UPI)—The Oakland A's have announced that veteran broadcaster Jim Woods will be a part of the club's radio-TV announcing team for the 1972 baseball season.

Woods will join Monte Moore, who has been with the A's for 10 years.

Duck Hunting Is Picking Up

By AL GIDDINGS

Duck hunting picked up this past week at most of the state refuges. Reports from Gray Lodge, Sutter, Delevan and Grissly Island all showed great improvements over the week before. With all the valley under freezing temperatures, the ponds were generally frozen too. This kept the birds moving and looking for thawed out ponds for a landing.

Actually, most of the hunters I checked with took limits. Adolph Brunn of San Rafael took a limit at Grizzly, and it you remember, last week we took just one spoonie on his Christmas shoot at Maxwell. The season closes next Sunday. Most of the first come, first servers are getting into the state's shooting areas without too much trouble. Even the local bay hunters had a fair number of birds, generally bluebills and cans taken off Petaluma and Sonoma Creek. Over at Bel Marin Keys off the Novato Creek Slough, some of the younger hunters are shooting until much after dark. This is illegal and dangerous, and some of the birds being shot at have been shorebirds, not ducks. The game wardens will be working that area this week, I suppose!

LAST FRIDAY evening I received a call from Charles Viau of Novato who had a 7-foot, 131-pound sturgeon to take care of. His problem was that the fish was not only a big one to clean, but the 30 pounds of sturgeon eggs it contained needed to be treated to be edible. He wanted me to come over to give him a hand with the operation, naturally for a fair share of the caviar (the finished product of sturgeon eggs). I couldn't make it; I had the flu bug. Let's see 30 pounds of eggs . . .16 ounces to the pound. . . that's 480 ounces at $2 per ounce. He caught the fish off the Hamilton Field flats using three grass shrimp to the hook.

With most of the hunting seasons closing next Sunday locally, most of the scattergunners will be putting their guns away. The black sea brant season will still be open through Feb. 20 with the limit again set at four birds per day this year. These bay dwelling birds are usually found in Tomales and Drake's Estero in Marin County. In the past few years they have only showed during the last weeks of the season. With Drake's Estero now being in the National Seashore, the hunting area has been halved. Things are tougher!

THE PIERCE POINT Pheasant Club formerly located at Pierce Pt. (now in the National Seashore) has moved its location to the lands adjacent to the Marin French Cheese Factory located on the Point Reyes Petaluma Road. Jim Johnson is still running the club. He raises his own birds and says he has about 4,000 top birds ready for use. If you are interested in this newly moved club, contact Johnson at 840 Bloomfield Road, Sebastopol, or go out to the club (closed on Monday, and on these cold mornings, don't get there too early). Jim does provide daily shoots for those not wishing a 40 or 20-bird membership. If everything goes bad, you can always get a delicious cheese product lunch at the Cheese Factory located there.

Of course if you want another shoot at chukar, quail, tree squirrels or rabbits, there are still some areas open. Check the hunting regulations booklet.

ABALONE SEASON closes the evening of Jan. 14 for a two-month period, opening again March 16. There are three low tides in the afternoon on the last three days open. On Wednesday, a -0.3 at 3:21; on Thursday, a -0.6 at 4:02, and on Friday, a -0.9 at 4:37. Not the best of tides, but that's it for this season.

A recent tally of sea otters along 147 miles of the California southern coast came to 959 sighted in an aerial survey by the Department of Fish and Game.

Oakland. Garner, you see, has an obsession.

"They call him Jabbar at school," said Clifford Hall, part of the deep Tam guard corps. Garner, smiling, admitted he liked being compared to star Milwaukee center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

Garner sees three possible barriers to success.

One is his weight. "I weigh about 180 now," he says. "I might start doing some weights this summer." "Oscar Robertson weighs 210," interjected Hall, talking about Milwaukee's 6-5 guard.

Another is defense. "I need to work on that some," he claims, although MCAL players who keep getting their shots blocked might disagree. "I'd have to improve on defense if I'm going to end up at a good basketball school like Marquette."

The third is his knees. "I wear a brace on the left knee, and the right one aches some. They're not getting worse now, but I should have them looked at when the season is over."

Garner carries "a low B average" at Tam and would major in sociology in college. He has been contacted by "more than 20 schools," and is nowhere near making a selection although he mentioned Oregon State, Weber State and San Diego State.

Right now, though, his energies are concentrated on the MCAL. "I'd kind of like to take the lead this year," he says.

"Basketball must be a contact game," Garner says. "It's possible to intimidate the other guy or get him upset by talking to him." His words reflect Tam's aggressive style of basketball.

"The team is a lot more together now than it was in preseason," he says. "Our defense has improved a lot lately. It would be nice to win it."

If Tam does, much of the credit will go to the agile post man who's already thinking about becoming a guard.

BY SHULA

'Cinderella' Image Denied

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—If a lot of football fans want to root for his Miami Dolphins in next Sunday's Super Bowl game because they're the underdogs, that's okay with Coach Don Shula, but please stop calling the American Conference champions "a Cinderella team."

The way Shula looks at it, that nickname sort of implies that somebody like a fairy Godmother popped up to hand his poor little team an invitation to the big fancy ball. No such thing, says Shula. Everything the Dolphins have gotten, they have earned.

"We've worked hard," Shula said as he started his squad through its final preparations here for the big showdown against the favored Dallas Cowboys in Super Bowl VI.

As far as the Dolphin players are concerned, you can underline that line about working hard. Shula's a taskmaster in workouts in the tradition of the late, great Vince Lombardi, whose hard-driving tactics paid off in victories in the first two Super Bowls in 1967 and '68.

Shula, who had the reputation of being a pretty hard-nosed customer himself during his own playing career as a defensive back in the National Football League, has a personal score to settle in Super Bowl VI, too.

He was in a Super Bowl once before, a coach of the Baltimore Colts, and that was the year that Joe Namath led the New York Jets to one of the most stunning upsets in pro football history.

"I just want to even my Super Bowl record," Shula said Monday. "One and one. Fifty-fifty."

The Dolphins resume serious workouts today and Shula says they will be "polishing the game plan, working on the things we want to do."

Shula had to admit with a wry smile that one of the things Miami will not be doing Sunday will be the "special play" that was suggested to him by President Nixon in a now-famous telephone call after the Dolphins won the AFC championship by defeating the Colts. The President had told Shula he thought the Dolphins could move against Dallas by passing to Paul Warfield "down and in."

Mrs. Hagge Triumphs In Miami

MIAMI (UPI) — Red-haired Marlene Hagge shot a steady one-under-par final round of 71 Sunday to win a four-stroke victory and $4,500 in the fourth annual Burdine's Invitational golf tournament.

The miniskirted Mrs. Hagge held off a final round charge by young Kathy Ahern to take the opening tournament on the Ladies Professional Golfers Association tour.

It was the first tournament win for Mrs. Hagge since 1969. She was five-under for the 54 holes on the par-72 Red Course at the Doral Country Club with scores of 68-72-71—211. She had 17 pars and one birdie on the 14th hole of the final round to beat par by a stroke.

"I was determined to keep my mind on my gane, play steady and make the others catch me," Mrs. Hagge said.

Mrs. Hagge, who plays out of the DeSoto Country Club in Sarasota, Fla., said she felt the turning point in the match was her birdie on the par-five, 450yard 14th hole.

"The birdie there put me five under par and gave me another stroke on Kathy, who at the time was two-under according to the leader board," Mrs. Hagge said.

Daniels Doesn't Impress Frazier

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Heavyweight champion Joe Frazier saw Terry Daniels' most impressive fight and Frazier wasn't impressed.

Frazier, who makes his eighth title defense against Daniels Saturday night, watched Daniels win a 10-round decision over Manuel Ramos, the Mexican heavyweight champion, last July 26 in Houston's Astrodome. Frazier noted he saw the fight and then began apologizing for Daniels.

"Of course, you don't judge a fighter on one fight," said Frazier. "He may be better than that. Sometimes a guy has to fight different because of his opponent. I don't know if Daniels was at his best then or not."

Daniels, who has a 29-4-1 record since turning pro three years ago, said that was his finest fight.

"I derived the most confidence from it," Daniels said. "It was in front of a big crowd and it was a big fight for me."

Daniels, 25, son of a Willoughby, Ohio, millionaire, said he has a balanced punching attack and that he has the power to knock out Frazier. But he admitted that he had a better chance of winning if the fight goes 15 rounds.

Frazier, 28, will be after his 28th straight victory and 24th knockout in his unbeaten career. He weighed 210 during Monday's nine-round workout and plans to enter the ring at 206 or 207.

It will be a pound or two heavier than his last fight, his 15-round victory over Muhammad Ali for the undisputed heavyweight championship. Frazier said he needed the extra weight because of the heat in New Orleans.

Frazier scorned a reported offer of $750,000 to meet Ali in a return fight in Los Angeles. Frazier's manager, Yancey Durham, said Frazier would not fight Ali in Los Angeles or New York.

"I'm not fighting in Los Angeles," Durham said. "I'm afraid of earthquakes. And as long as that tax bite is as great as it is, we're not returning to New York."

Durham suggested Las Vegas, but said he was not committed to any city.

"The purpose of these bouts is to get the fighters ready for the inter-service competition Jan. 28 at Camp LeJeune, N.C.," said Hamilton publicist Ed Jefferson. "At Camp LeJune, fighters will qualify to box a Russian team in Moscow Feb. 9."

'35 SECONDS'

He guesses he would have to take off "about 35 seconds" (over the approximately 1 mile distance) to make the Olympic team in Munich this summer.

What are his chances of doing so?

And as the marathon meet wore into the evening hours late Sunday, DeMont turned and said, "This has got to be the greatest meet of my life. But I wish it would finish up quick so I can go home and watch Bonanza."

Los Angeles Brass Honors Walt Alston

Walter Alston enters his 19th campaign as manager of the Dodgers this season. Only two men in the history of baseball managed one team longer — Connie Mack, 50 years with the Philadelphia Athletics; John McGraw, 31 years with the New York Giants.

This year Alston ties the mark of Cap Anson who managed the Cubs 19 seasons, 1879-97. Last season Alston tied the previous longevity mark of a Dodger manager — Wilbert Robinson who managed the team for 18 seasons, 1914-31.

DODGER BRASS paid a special tribute to Alston today at a luncheon in the Stadium Club of Dodger Stadium during a press preview showing of the 1971 World Series film. From a Dodger viewpoint there was only one thing wrong with the film — Alston and his team were not in it.

In the history of the World Series only three managers have won more often than Alston. Casey Stengel and Joe McCarthy each won seven, Connie Mack five. Alston's Dodgers won the World Series in 1955, 1959, 1963 and 1965, losing in 1956 and 1966. His six pennants puts him in a sixth place tie with Miller Huggins. Stengel and McGraw won 10. Mack and McCarthy each won nine.

Naturally, Alston believes his 1972 Dodgers will win another pennant. However, he carefully phrased his prediction this way: "We came within one game of catching the Giants in 1971. We have an improved team this year."

How have the Dodgers improved?

"FIRST OF all," said Alston, "we strengthened our pitching with acquisition of Tommy John from the White Sox and Pete Richert from the Orioles. John has been a consistently good pitcher for the White Sox and he should be even better in our park. Richert will help our bullpen."

"BUCKNER can play either the outfield or first base and Valentine has the versatility to play second, third, shortstop or the outfield," said Alston.

"There are several ways we can go in the infield. Much depends on Bill Grabarkewitz. He led our team in home runs last season with 17.

"We have Wes Parker at first and Maury Wills at shortstop and that's a good start for building an infield. Jim Lefebvre and Steve Garvey will be making strong bids. So, too, will Bill Russell and Valentine.

"IN THE OUTFIELD Robinson will be in right. Willie David in center now has had three seasons in a row during which he has been a .300 hitter. Willie Crawford enjoyed his best season in 1971. Then, there's Manny Mota, a fine prospect in Tom Paciorek, and Larry Hisle, acquired from the Phillies."

Alston has four catchers — Duke Sims, Bill Sudakis, Chris Cannizzaro and Joe Ferguson. "Sims' bat was hot at the end of 1971," Alston said. "Sudakis was second in homers to Grabarkewitz with 14."

After analyzing his 1972 squad, Alston acknowledged that Bill Singer will be a key in Dodger pennant hopes. A victim of illness and injuries last year, Singer had a 10-17 record. He came on very strong late in the season. "If Singer is healthy he'll mean 10 more wins for our club," said Alston.

1971 Banner Year For Marin Real Estate Brokers, Salesmen

In fact, it was the best year they ever had in sales. The Marin County Board of Realtors points to a record $107,972,246 in completed multiple listing transactions. That was so far ahead of 1970's $73,484,433 as to make the latter appear almost insignificant. The gain was about 45 per cent.

The important thing about this is that all but about 11 per cent of this increase was the result of more properties being sold — 2,672 in 1971 against 2,003 in 1970. That 11 per cent can be attributed to higher prices.

December's completed sales totaled $7,112,707 — a satisfying increase over the corresponding period in 1970 which showed $6,692,250. Newly reported sales for the month also were good — $6,228,705, or 50 per cent above those for the last month of 1970. (Completed sales are those which have cleared all the hurdles and necessarily include a great number of sales reported during previous months).

There may be a real estate man somewhere in the county who doesn't believe 1972 will do even better. But if there is, I haven't found him.

Industries Supply Stock Acquired

SAN DIEGO (BW) — ESD Co. has announced that negotiations have been concluded for the acquisition of Industries Supply Co.

Spokesmen said ESD has acquired all of the outstanding stock of Industries Supply for an undisclosed amount of cash and notes.

Mergers In 1971 Dip 10%

CHICAGO (BW) — Merger announcements in 1971 totaled 4,635, a decline of 10 per cent from the 5,152 in 1970, according to W. T. Grimm & Co., financial consulting firm specializing in mergers and acquisitions.

The upward trend noted in the third quarter of 1971 was virtually wiped out by a slack fourth quarter.

Only 1,207 announcements were counted in the fourth quarter, an 8 per cent decrease from the 1,308 for the comparative period of 1970.

Impressive percentage increases over 1970 activity were noted in the following industry categories: computer services; electrical equipment; fabricated metal products; finance, banks and insurance; instruments and optics; paper; public utilities; rubber and leather; transportation; valves, pumps and hydraulics; wholesale and retail, and miscellaneous.

On the other hand, industrial categories experiencing the highest percentage of decline were: aerospace and aircraft; automotive products; building products and materials; furniture; packaging and containers, and education.

Tender offers in the fourth quarter of 1971 decreased sharply to 30 from 54 recorded in the fourth quarter of 1970. Cumulatively, 1971 aggregated 110 tender offers, a 7 per cent increase over the 103 for 1970. More than 56 per cent of all tender offers occurred in the "finance, banks and insurance" field.

Grimm & Co. stated that sales of divisions, product lines and subsidiaries continued to dominate the merger movement. In both the third and fourth quarter of 1971, divisional sales aggregated 41 per cent of all announcements, compared with 34 and 29 per cent, respectively, for the comparative quarters of 1970.

Industrial categories showing the highest percentages of divestments for the year 1971 include: aerospace and aircraft; chemicals, paints and coatings; computer services; conglomerate; petroleum, and primary metal processors.

Equity-type securities as a form of payment in mergers continued to decline. Only 49 per cent of all transactions in 1971 were for stock, in contrast with 52 per cent in 1970 and 57 per cent in 1969.

Cash and debt transactions inched up to 34 and 32 per cent, while combination transactions involving cash, debt and/or stock were utilized in 17 per cent of all deals, up from 16 per cent in 1970.

Based on the 40 industrial categories covered by the Grimm study, the largest number of announcements recorded were: finance, banks and insurance with 788; general services with 517, and wholesale and retail, 447.

The strength of the finance, banks and insurance field can be attributed to a growing trend toward holding companies. With some states barring branch banking, the holding company has become a legal maneuver of expansion.

Bank Of Tokyo Income Reported

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — The Bank of Tokyo of California has reported record 1951 income before securities gains (losses) of $4,072,000, an increase of $1,093,000, or 36.7 per cent over the 1970 figure of $2,979,000.

Per share earnings reached $4.04, up from $3.01, which has been restated to reflect a 2-for-1 split of the bank's common stock effected March 31.

Net income for 1971 rose 34.6 per cent to $3,948,000, or $3.92 per share, up from $2,933,000, or $2.96 per share (restated) in 1970.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Should Hold Stock: Potential Impresses

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Last spring I bought some stock in Browning-Ferris Industries (OTC). Since then it has nearly doubled. I am interested in long-term capital growth rather than immediate profit. In view of the stock's action I am wondering what the future holds for this company? — R.O.

A. Recently listed on the New York Stock Exchange, shares of this solid waste management firm split two-for-one in November. During fiscal 1971, 11 companies were acquired pushing gross revenues to $68.23 million, up 25 per cent from the adjusted 1970 figure. Earnings, including newly-acquired companies and adjusted for the split, were 50 cent a share for the year ended Sept. 20.

In the past five years earnings have grown at an average annual compound rate of 30 per cent. Acquisitions have played an important role in company's growth adding significantly to the geographic scope of operations. Collection services, processing and disposal plants and sanitary land pills operated by Browning-Ferris, are located in eight states, Canada and Puerto Rico.

Collection services to industrial and commercial customers contribute the bulk of company revenues. A facility in Detroit processes and sells wastepaper. However, recycling of waste products is not yet a significant source of revenue for Browning.

Although shares of this rapidly expanding company are selling at a rich multiple, the potential for the industry is impressive and shares should be held.

Q. I own 50 shares of Data Products which were bought while employed there. It is now roughly 66 per cent below original purchase price. Should I sell? — S.B.

A. Operating difficulties have plagued this manufacturer of computer peripheral equipment since the end of fiscal 1970. However, Data Products (ASE) recently reported slight improvement in operations.

For the first half of fiscal 1972, sales posted a 31 per cent gain to $25.5 million, while profits amounted to 1 cent a share versus a 15 cent-a-share deficit in fiscal 1971's comparable period. Earnings in the second period of 1972 business year were nil.

Until Data Products' operations show some sustained growth signs shares will continue relatively unappealing; sale is justified.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

Delicate Reasoning By Blue Team Brings Home A Victory

When the Italian Blue Team came out of retirement to play a special match at the Las Vegas Hilton against the Dallas Aces, many hopeful Americans thought that the home team would win, as it turned out, the visitors took home all the marbles, amounting to $15,000 in cash and the unofficial world championship. The hand shown today, played in the match, indicates why the Italian masters won.

MISGUESSES

When the hand was first played, one of the Americans was declarer at six hearts. He got a club lead, misguessed the play of the trump suit and wound up losing a heart and a spade.

In the second room, Benito Garozzo played the South hand with the favorable opening lead of the nine of spades. Garozzo reasoned that East surely had some diamonds and would have raised diamonds if he were void of hearts. Garozzo therefore began the trumps by leading the deuce to dummy's ace.

It was then easy to pick up East's trumps by leading twice through East toward South's K-Q-8 of trumps.

ADDS ICING

The slam was now safe, but Garozzo added some icing to the cake by guessing the club position. It was clear that West had only three spades and no hearts at all, and this left a good deal of room in his hand for clubs.

The bidding may need a word or two of comment. North's strange jump to two notrump was a conventional bid favored by this particular partnership, showing length in the two lower unbid suits (hearts and clubs in this case).

SHOWS STRENGTH

Garozzo showed strength in both of those suits by bidding the opponent's suit (diamonds); and North (Pietro Forquet) showed an unwillingness to settle for a mere game by responding with a cue bid in diamonds. Garozzo, a confirmed overbidder, needed no more encouragement to bid a slam.

DAILY QUESTION

♠ - A J 6 3
♥ - K Q 8 2
♦ - 6
♣ - J 8 7 4.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one club or pass.

Many experts would open this borderline hand, but some would pass it. Your best chance to find the major-suit fit (if there is one) is to open with one club and raise any major suit response. If partner bids one diamond, you plan to bid one heart next.

Truck Trainers' Revisions Due

NEW YORK (UPI) — National Professional Truck Driver Training, described as one of the nation's largest truck driving schools, has agreed to make 50 revisions in its sales recruitment, the New York City Department of Consumer Affairs announced yesterday.

Commissioner Bess Myerson said the 50-point Assurance of Discontinuation was the most extensive ever obtained by her department.

Miss Myerson said the Atlanta-based school has eight training centers in the nation.

Cismondi's Photographs Are Without A 'Crutch'

By LAURA DEVENDORF

But when it comes to verbalizing his photographic "philosophy, motivation or whatever," he just doesn't believe in doing it.

"Too often this is used as a crutch," he says. And he adds, "Photography is a visual medium, enough said."

With such an attitude, he deserves not having someone presume to do it for him. So the following is simply a sampling of the subjects he explores.

The subjects fall into three categories, one of which is scenes of nature such as cloudy sunsets, mountain rocks and trees, brightly lighted weeds against dark backgrounds, or wind-rippled sand dunes. Or these may be close-ups of rocks, water or cracked mud. Many of them, especially the closeups, have strong, simple designs and Cismondi goes even further with this in several pure black and white patterns, a second category, which look like photographs of paper cutouts.

The largest subject group is one which bears man's imprint, although man himself is absent. In several of these, doorknobs occupy the focal point suggesting life styles that happened behing doors elegantly encrusted with carving or broken and patched with weather-beaten wood.

In others, white paint drooling down an old screen door, an electric meter and even a drain pipe in cement — all man-made compositions — are photographed in ways which lend them their own sense of structure. More man-oriented works are a graveyard with its wooden markers fallen in disarray or the empty chair and bottle in the abandoned room lit by dusty light falling through two dirty windows.

How a person should react to these, Cismondi doesn't try to suggest. He sayd, "The way you feel about my images in the final analysis must certainly be the sum total of your life's experiences."

So it is enough to say that he gives you many, varied images to interpret and that they are, most often, suggestive enough so that you can lose yourself in them and actively apply that "sum total experiences" with a great deal of enjoyment.

$4.3 Million Wall Street Job By Boy

NEW YORK (UPI) — A 14-year-old boy, who played the artful dodger Monday when he relieved a 68-year-old Wall Street messenger of some $4.3 million in negotiable securities, was the object of an intense search today by police, truant officers and FBI agents.

The youth made his getaway when he jumped into a waiting car after attacking Ernest Staiti from behind and taking the securities. The car sped off through the narrow, winding streets.

The boy was described as about 14, 5-feet-1, wearing blue dungarees, a dark jacket and white sneakers.

The robbery victim was taking the valuables from the Federal Reserve Bank to a Wall Street investment firm. A spokesman for the U.S. Trust Co. said the securities were "covered by insurance and there will be no financial loss to any customer of U.S. Trust or to the U.S. Trust company."

The envelope Staiti was carrying reportedly contained regular negotiable bonds, U.S. Treasury notes and a check—a total value of $4,318,000.

Water Panel Will Study Tiburon Bid

A request by the Tiburon Sanitary District to join a sanitation district proposed to handle sewage in southeast Marin will be considered by directors of the Marin Municipal Water District at their regular meeting at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow in the district office in Corte Madera.

When the water board formed Improvement District A in December of 1970 to study the possibility of consolidating Southern Marin sanitary agencies, the Tiburon district and City of Belvedere declined to participate.

Now that the study is completed and the water district is taking steps to form the sanitation district, both Belvedere and Tiburon have asked to join the project.

The water district board also will request the county board of supervisors to begin formal procedures to form the new district.

In other business, the board will hear a report from its attorney on the district's legal obligations to provide new service connections if a water shortage occurs in the district.

Forgery Suspect Pleads Innocent

Shirley Fabian, 26, of 200 Posada Del Sol, Apt. 12, Novato, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to five counts of forgery.

Preliminary hearing was set for Jan. 25.

She was arrested Jan. 3 in Nevada City, Nevada County, on a Marin warrant charging her with a violation of probation. When she was brought to Marin, it was discovered there was another warrant for her arrest in connection with the forgery charges.

A codefendant in the case, Robert Lee Smith, 38, of Novato, already has pleaded innocent to the charges, as well as to one of passing bad checks, and has a preliminary hearing set for Jan. 25.

Other recipients were:

Homeowners Seek Delay In Larkspur

The Madrone Woodlands Homeowners Association has asked the Larkspur City Council to defer action on development of the massive Adolph A. Tiscornia estate until full consideration has been given to keeping it undeveloped.

A letter from the group's president, Warren H. Patton, also asked delay until Mocine and Williams, planning consultants, complete their review of the city's general plan late this year.

The group particularly disliked two elements of the development, Patton said. Objectionable are plans to grade the top of Little King Mountain for home sites and high density development on low land near the Safeway food store on Bon Air Road, he said.

The Tiscornia plan covers about 310 acres — about 100 acres in Larkspur, the remainder unincorporated — that eventually would hold a commercial center, 190 townhouses and 110 homes. About 150 acres would be dedicated to the public as open space.

Larkspur made submission of the general plan a prerequisite to issuance of a grading permit and the city staff now is studying the plan.

The 'Men Only' Sign Is Booted

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI)—The Clam Broth House, a bar and restaurant in Hoboken, N. J., has been found guilty of sex discrimination.

James Blair, state civil rights director, ruled Monday that the bar's "men only" policy violated state law. He ordered the bar to begin serving women.

The owners said admitting women would ruin the bar's "atmosphere" — floors ankle-deep in sawdust and empty clam shells, and typical men's barroom conversation.

Nixon Won't Be Campaigning

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon's self-imposed ban on partisan politics until the Republican National Convention in August does not apply to his wife Pat and their two daughters, White House aides said Monday. For them the campaign already is subtly under way.

In declaring his candidacy for re-election last week, Nixon said in a letter to supporters who put his name on the New Hampshire primary ballot, "It will not be possible for me to campaign actively and personally in any of the primary elections."

"Wherever the First Lady appears from now on, there will be a political connection," one aide explained.

Kasischke was assigned to the 480th Tactical Fighter Squadron while in Vietnam.

After Vietnam he was detachment commander and chief of flight testing with Ling-Temco-Vought and Fairchild-Hiller at Greenville, N.C., and Crestview, Fla.

Werber Begins Serving Six-Month Pot Sentence

With a wave and a smile to a pretty female companion, former restaurauteur and Kingston Trio manager Frank N. Werber entered Marin County Jail yesterday.

Werber, who had fought incarceration for almost two years, began serving a six-month jail sentence for cultivating and possessing marijuana.

Werber, 42, was convicted by a jury in superior court in 1970 as a result of a 1968 arrest in which drug agents seized six seabags of marijuana during a raid on his home near Richardson Bay.

Werber contended during his trial that other marijuana found in his home was used for religious purposes. The sea bags were a frameup, he said.

Judge E. Warren McGuire rejected the defense on religious grounds, and his decision was upheld by California appellate courts and, last month, by a U.S. District Court judge in San Francisco.

In addition to the jail sentence, the former owner of the Trident restaurant in Sausalito will have to pay a $2,000 fine.

Students Of Richard Yip Will Display

An exhibit of paintings by students of Richard Yip of Stockton, some residents of Marin, will be on display at the Hall of Flowers, Golden Gate Park, San Francisco, from 2 to 4 p.m. Saturday.

There is no admission charge.

Cure Might Prove Greater Injustice

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court is one of the most conscientious jurists in the state — or any state, for that matter.

We can therefore be sure that long and careful consideration preceded Judge Wilson's order to Marin law enforcement officers to keep secret the names of juveniles arrested.

Judge Wilson acted for what he saw as protection of the juveniles. Because juvenile court proceedings in California are customarily held behind closed doors, under a special provision of law, the under-age person does not have the same opportunity for public exoneration as does the adult accused of a crime. There is no word of whether he is cleared or found guilty. Only the arrest becomes public.

HIS AIM is commendable. But there are other considerations.

Protection of the youth is one thing. Protection of the public is another that must be weighed against it.

Not many years ago, but before the Independent-Journal adopted the policy of printing names of juveniles arrested on what for adults would be felony charges, San Rafael police picked up an 18-year-old youth on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. That was the polite, legal term for an odious crime.

A check into his record disclosed this youth had been arrested six times as a juvenile on identical charges — but his name had never been published.

Then there is the matter of parental responsibility.

Under California law, if your property is stolen or vandalized by a juvenile, you can sue his parents to recover the loss. But if you cannot learn the name of the juvenile, whom can you sue?

As Justice Tom C. Clark wrote in the U. S. Supreme Court decision in the Dr. Sam Sheppard appeal: "The principle that justice cannot be served behind walls of silence has long been reflected in the Anglo-American distrust for secret trials."

We need not look to such countries as Russia and Cuba to find actual examples of secret detention. Howard James of the Christian Science Monitor, doing research for a series of articles which became the book, "Crisis in the Courts," found them in several places in the United States, and most of those he found involved juveniles.

LASTLY, THERE IS a question whether judges can order police to withhold arrest details, although Judge Wilson thinks from the California Supreme Court decision in TNG vs. Superior Court that they can.

A special 1967 committee of the Bar of the City of New York, headed by the renowned Judge Harold R. Medina, thought otherwise. It held that courts do not have "any power whatsoever" over the police in the pretrial stage of a case. And of the idea that they should have such power, Judge Medina wrote:

"The prospect, in this pretrial period, of judges of various criminal courts of high and low degree sitting as petit tyrants handing down sentences of fine and imprisonment for contempt of court againso lawyers, policemen, and reporters and editors is not attractive. Such an innovation might well cut prejudicial publicity to a minimum. But at what a price!"

Judge Wilson's cure may be more dangerous than the possible injustice he seeks to correct.

Model Reapportionment Scheme Meets Criteria

Suppose, just suppose, that reapportionment were taken away from legislators and party hacks and put in the hands of some neutral force, parsons equipped with professional integrity and a modern data processing system.

—community of interest,
—compace districts,
—complete neutrality toward racial and ethnic groups,
—complete neutrality toward partisan registration, and —disregard for incumbents' place of residence.

What would develop if reapportionment were done on that basis — for the voter rather than the politician?

WELL, SUCH A MODEL plan was submitted to the Reapportionment Commission last week by Compass Systems, a San Diego data firm. Because the company had previously developed a Republican reapportionment plan, many in both the press and Democratic party hastily wrote it off as biased.

But those truly interested in honest reapportionment would do well to consider its approach and its results.

Dominant economic activities (industrial, agricultural, etc.), natural geographic barriers, family income levels, and local governmental boundaries and concerns.

THESE FACTORS, not race or ethnic background, are the true determinants of community of interest. To view community of interest by race is to say that blacks don't worry about taxes or that whites don't fret about unemployment. Except for extremisits and political pimps, community concerns are more properly equated with socio-economic factors than with race.

The model plan was neutral; it neither created "minority" districts nor drew district lines to exclude minority neighborhoods. Yet, minority groups would achieve greater representation through the model plan than under political gerrymandering which panders to some while excluding others.

The districts are compact, not distended or fragmented. In no case is a freeway or an open waterway used to hook fragments together. Local governmental entities are grouped together so that cities and counties would have more effective representation in Sacramento.

Each of the 40 senatorial districts would neatly comprise two contiguous and compatible Assembly districts. Thus, even more effective legislative representation.

Incensed At Sausalito Parking Meter Gouge

I wonder how many shoppers in Sausalito are shocked to find that an expired meter costs $5? Getting gouged like that would deter any thoughts about future shopping there. To see how out of proportion this fine is, check their other parking violations: loading zone, $2; bus stop, $3, of if a person wanted to save money, he could actually park right on the sidewalk for a bargain of $3.

Obviously more people are going to violate the expired meter and that means more money in the city coffer. No doubt, the Sausalito city councilmen wish to deal in volume business.

In view of other disclosures about operations in Sausalito, this, too, may be categorized under legal robbery.

State Employees Want Fair Shake

As a state employee and member of the California State Employees' Association, I was upset to see editorials of 28 and 30 Dec. criticizing our initiative measure. Current state law (Government Code 18850) provides that state employee salaries will be based on prevailing rates for comparable jobs in private business. The sad fact is that the governor has consistently ignored this law. Our salaries used to be competitive with private business, attracting highly qualified and skilled workers. As a result California can boast one of the finest civil services in the nation. It's fitting. We're the biggest state, we're the wealthiest but we've also got the biggest problems. We need the best people we can get. The governor, through excessive use of his veto power, has allowed salaries to lag 15 to 25 per cent behind private business. All we want is equal pay for equal work, not one penny more! We know Californians value the work state employees are doing in education, law enforcement, safety, public health, rehabilitation, ecology, medicine and public services too numerous to mention. We want our salaries based on the jobs we do, not on partisan politics, not on political expediency, not on one man's whim. The only way to preserve the high quality of state service is to keep salaries aligned with private business. That's why we want to give salary setting power to the State Personnel Board and the Legislature. The CSEA initiative is our only hope for fair play. We're not getting it from the governor.

Consultant's Report Upsets Corte Maderans

I have read several articles regarding the Corte Madera Fire Department. I was somewhat dismayed with the consultant's report as presented in the I-J, and wondered at the time. After reading some of the comments that have come forth from erstwhile citizens of this community I too would like to add my opinion.

I have no member in the department, but couldn't help feel irate with the report as presented. I am certain on a cold, rainy night no consultant would like to respond when the alarm sounds that a home is afire or that a car has gone off the winding road over the hill to Mill Valley. I have been a resident of this area for over 40 years and agree with the thoughts of Mr. Hyde, that perhaps, some implementing and updating needs be in the department, but when it comes to securing better people there just aren't any finer than those who give of their time and risk their lives in our behalf and here I am most grateful and know whereby I speak as I have seen these volunteers as well as professionals respond and stay until all is under control or completely out and then continue to stay on and make every effort to calm the unnerved person who has been the victim of this disaster . . .

I for one feel a security that in the event of fire every effort will be made to do all within their power to get it under control and out if possible with the least amount of damage. I am sure we noted that in Mr. Hyde's letter — as such could have been the entire area — such as on Fourth Street in San Rafael a few years back . . . I feel our chief, his assistants and entire crew give more than many and deserve praise and confidence for a job well done with the equipment they have. Perhaps, if the funds used for this consultant would be used for equipment and additional personnel it would assist this fine group of citizens.

Why CSEA Advocates Pay-Setting Change

Columnist Rus Walton Dec. 30, 1971, finds fault with state employees' desire to change the system under which their salaries are set.

He and your readers should know that the initiative proposed by the California State Employees' Association did not materialize in thin air.

This salary-setting initiative resulted from months of painstaking study and evaluation by CSEA leaders in a nationwide search for new approaches to the complex problems of employer-employee relations in public employment . . .

CSEA didn't want the kind of industrial collective bargaining which has caused so much frustration in Hawaii and Pennsylvania, nor did we like the New York system, with its strikes and turmoil.

In Michigan, CSEA found a system which seemed to work:

— The civil service commission studies prevailing levels of pay and recommends salary increase funds necessary to assure Michigan state employees are paid no less and no more than private sector employees doing the same kind of jobs.

This is called the Michigan Plan and CSEA, with modifications, submitted an Assembly constitutional amendment to the California legislature last year.

Although this bill died in committee, the Michigan Plan concept was studied by A. Alan Post, the state's highly respected legislative analyst. His conclusion is instructive.

"This measure would have no significant long-term fiscal effect," said Post, "if we assure that state employee salaries and benefits will be adjusted over the years by the governor and legislature to reflect comparable pay for comparable work as determined by the State Personnel Board." . . .

CSEA agrees wholeheartedly that economy is needed in state government. But economy in government — as in business — requires attracting and maintaining a qualifed, competent work force.

CSEA believes the plan evolved in Michigan can help provide this needed economy in government in California.

McGovern Looks More And More Like Kennedy Stalking Horse

WASHINGTON — The candidate who had the candor and the courage to announce nearly a year ago has been fated to run as hard as possible just to stay in place. Sen. George McGovern has spoken out on the issues. He has pursued the wary voter on the chicken-patty circuit, in shopping centers, and at college forums with tireless zeal.

Yet, by all measurements he has moved up scarcely at all from his initial rating of four or five points. He deserves better than that if only for his courage and candor.

The pros surveying the field give various reasons for his failure to move up. One, is his lack of presence. A naturally modest and kindly man, he fails to come on with the kind of hard-nose ego that makes a John Lindsay leap out of the television screen.

ANOTHER REASON goes deeper. It is summed up in the word credibility. Despite disclaimers from all and sundry, the belief persists that the Senator from South Dakota with Eager Kennedyites enlisted in his campaign is a stalking horse for Edward M. Kennedy, the seantor from Massachusetts.

In February still another figure out of the Kennedy power structure will become part of the McGovern high command. Pierre Salinger, press secretary to President Kennedy, will give up the good life in France — a country place near Tours. An office in Paris — to work for McGovern.

He rejected in Paris the other day with considerable emphasis the suggestion that this would be merely preparatory to switching to Kennedy when the Democrats in Miami Beach turn to the golden boy with the magic name and the high-voltage charisma. Don't you know Kennedy isn't going to run? says Salinger, who is completing the screen play of his successful novel, "On Instructions from my Government."

BE THAT AS IT MAY, the skeptics will see his accession as one more bit of evidence that the eager power brokers are rallying once again. With a front-runner emerging from an ever-more crowded field they will have a tough assignment. Sen. Edmund Muskie is gaining a momentum hard to check unless he is cut up in one of the presidential primaries. And just this goal absorbs a lot of the planning and plotting of the backroom boys.

They concede the first go-round in New Hampshire to Muskie. After all, that state is next door to his native Maine. What is more, his origin as a Polish Catholic appeals to the ethnics important in the Democratic party in New Hampshire.

But then come Florida, Illinois, Wisconisn, and, finally, California. Each one is a barbed-wire hurdle that can damage, if not destroy. The image of the front-runner. He comes limping into the convention at Miami Beach as only one of a half-dozen contenders. Each with a clutch of delegates.

With the delegates restless, uncertain, facing extreme demands from variouf factions, it is Teddy Kennedy's hour. The need for a winner who has not suffered the wounds of the primaries sweeps the hall.

They believe the result would be one of the dirtiest campaigns in American political history, with the threat of assassination lurking around every corner. That is why in considerable numbers, for the most part without fanfare, they are lining up with Muskie. This means political know-how, money, brains.

The cut-up-Muskie strategy overlooks a very great peril in this year dubious for the opposition party. It can mean cutting up the chance of defeating Richard Nixon in November. The chances are at the moment poor at best. A Donnybrook sweeping past the first ballot at Miami Beach could be as lethal as the turmoil that made a sorry spectacle of the convention in Chicago in 1968.

As more and more candidates jump in, cutting up Muskie looks more likely. A carefully considered instrument is New York's Mayor Lindsay. With money for television he can come out if not winner in California, then a very close second.

Yet, as the new boy in the school, his credentials as a Democrat only four months old, he is the most widely distrusted by the field. Out of one camp has come a slogan that is pure poison: "I promise to do for the nation what I've done for New York."

ERNEST B. FURGURSON

Sewage Of Today May Be Energy Source Of Tomorrow

JAMESTOWN, Va. — The obvious thing to reflect on at midstream on the James River Ferry is the span of history you can cover at a glance. On the east bank is the spot where English settlers first put down roots in this half of the world. 13 hungry and malaria-ridden years before the celebrated Pilgrims arrived at Plymouth Rock. On the west are the twin white domes of the Surry nuclear power plant, standing for the future instead of the past.

What might have happened to the Jamestown expedition if it had brought nuclear power sources along in its frail ships in 1607? Probably Virginia would have become an industrial rather than an agricultural colony, and the men who later spelled out our national philosophy would have been too busy making guns and money to bother with declarations and constitutions. That is too farfetched to play with.

BUT IF YOU CHANCE to have been reading in ecology instead of history, you may know the colonists did bring an unorthodox power source with them, one still so modern it has not yet been perfected or widely considered. It is common today in the counties around the Surry plant, where the best-known product remains Smithfield's hams rather than electric energy. Hogs, chickens, cattle and the rest of us produce it daily: it is the only energy source sure to last as long as man does.

It is manure — or, depending on who produces it, sewage. Long cherished as a fertilizer, in different forms here and abroad, it also has served as domestic fuel, in the form of buffalo chips in the American West and cow dung in India, but only an occasional visionary has seen the potential for large-scale power output.

Now that the world is upset about the imminent energy crisis, and the coal operators are raping the countryside, the oil drillers are drooling over our prime coastline and even nuclear energy is adding its more benign pollution to the long-abused James River, it is about time we all became such visionaries.

We all have a stake in urgently exploring alternate sources of energy before the whole country is ripped apart, buried in oil and smog. The only ones who can understandably scoff at that search are those making their fortunes by continuing to do things the reckless way they are being done. The oil man, the auto manufacturer, the coal operator and utility company see no alternative to destroying the country because that is where their money is. But the rest of us have no reason for allowing these few to inscet on hellbent suicide for us all.

EXISTING ALTERNATE sources have their drawbacks. Electricity produced by "clean" nuclear plants still involves thermal pollution and the risk of radiation leakage. Electric-powered cars would cut smog but would demand still more power production.

That is where manure comes in, which sounds like a joke but calls for serious consideration although it seems so unlikely by modern standards. By older standards, those of the original Jamestown colony and of the Indians, it is a logical thing to recycle the material at hand rather than to drill at great costs in the high Arctic, the ocean bed and the underside of mountains.

Burning manure or sewage produces its own noxious air pollution, of course. But processing it to produce methane gas is both possible and economical. And methane burns cleanly, producing negligible air pollution. Hinrich L. Bohn writes in Environment the capital costs of converting to methane would be considerable. But once the switch was made, the system would tap an unending fuel supply. He estimates that a ton of dry manure would produce 20,000 cubic feet of methane, worth from $3.40 to $6.40. That compares with the current natural gas price of 17 cents per 1,000 cubic feet at the wellhead, and a wholesesale rate of 33 cents around Chicago and 45 cents in the New York area.

Every approach to the subject provides material for a hundred bathroom jokes. But once you stop laughing, if that is your kind of humor, you might think about it. While you're at it, think too about the sizable dent it would make in our desperate sewage disposal problem, and what that could mean to your local tax bill. Pretty good joke.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Jan. 11, 1962

Death toll in an avalanche that wiped out a Peruvian mountain town was estimated at 3,000.

Two young members of the Sequeira family of Marinwood were found guilty in Marin Municipal Court of maiming and wounding animals on their ranch by turning fighting pit bulls on other dogs.

20 YEARS AGO

Jan. 11, 1952

Building permits in Marin during 1951 topped $24 million — a new high for the second successive year — according to an Independent-Journal tabulation.

One Night Off For Courting — But Only For Male Employees

Eighty-one-year-old Margaret Wright of Novato, who can recall the six-day week, no vacations and no sick pay, believes people today just don't realize how rough working conditions were in the past.

"My father worked 12 hours a day, six days a week," she said. The only summer vacation he got was the Fourth of July and maybe Memorial Day, she said.

"If he got sick, he lost pay."

MRS. WRIGHT DIDN'T get any vacation time either when she went to work for the San Joaquin Light and Power Co. in 1918. "There were no benefits," she recalled.

By way of acquainting the younger generations with the so-called good old days, she brought a clipping to the Independent-Journal office in Novato the other day, with hopes it could be printed.

What she had in hand was a page from Women's Household magazine of July, 1966, with a list of 1872 office rules in Boston, Mass., submitted to the magazine by a reader from Oregon.

FOR THOSE who think they have it tough now, here are the rules:

"1. Office employees each day will fill lamps, clean chimneys and trim wicks. Wash windows once a week.

"2. Each clerk will bring in a bucket of water and a scuttle of coal for the day's business.

"3. Make your pens carefully. You may whittle nibs to your individual taste.

"4. Men employees will be given an evening off each week for courting purposes or two evenings a week if they go regularly to church.

"5. After 13 hours of labor in the office, the employee should spend the remaining time readng the Bible and other good books.

"6. Each employee should lay aside from each pay day a goodly sum of his earnings for his benefit during his declining years so that he will not become a burden to society.

"7. Any employee who amokes Spanish cigars, uses liquor in any form or frequents pool or public halls, or gets shaved in a barber shop will give good reason to suspect his worth, intentions, integrity and honesty.

"8. The employee who has performed his labor faithfully and without fault for five years will be given an increase of five cents per day in his pay, providing the profits from business permit."

Sabotage Booted In Ship's Blaze

HONG KONG (UPI)—Fire Chief Harry Wood today dismissed as pure speculation reports that sabotage may have been involved in the fire that swept the former Queen Elizabeth in Hong Kong harbor.

The 1,030-foot liner lay on its side today with its twin smoke stacks partially submerged. Authorities reported some fire still burning in several parts of the vessel.

"Rumors that sabotage was involved are purely speculative," said Wood. "I cannot rule out the possibility but I find such speculation rather difficult to appreciate."

School Arrests Report Held False

TOURS, France (UPI) — An official of the Stanford (Calif.) University overseas program yesterday said reports that seven American students studying in the program had been arrested and charged with possessing hashish were false.

"No one was charged with anything. Police came to our center Wednesday and conducted an investigation. They found no evidence of drug use and no one was charged with drug use or possession," said Keith Naylor, assistant director of the Stanford-in-France program.

ART BUCHWALD

Leave It To Mr. Bitterman To Take Care Of Ambassador

WASHINGTON — In the supersecret documents that columnist Jack Anderson released, it was revealed that both President Nixon and Henry Kissinger supported Pakistan much more strongly than the country was led to believe, and also were far more hostile toward India than anyone had reason to assume.

The transcript of one of the high-level meetings held at the White House during the crisis shows that Kissinger took a very tough stand toward India. Part of the minutes read: "Dr. Kissinger also directed that henceforth we show a certain coolness to the Indians; the Indian ambassador is not to be treated at too high a level."

Now while this sounds petty, when you read it in cold print, it is obvious to everyone that the most powerful nation in the world must show its displeasure when it believes another country has let it down.

BUT HOW IS THIS done?

Deep in the bowels of the State Department there is a bureau whose sole function is to make life miserable for the embassy of a country that the United States is feuding with. It is known as the anti-protocol office and it is at present headed up by Horace Bitterman, a former guard at Attica Prison.

I talked to Mr. Bitterman the other day, and while he refused to confirm or deny that the screws had been put to the Indian ambassador, he did tell me how the anti-protocol office operates.

"When we get alerted by the White House that the President wishes to show a certain coolness to a country, we go immediately into action. The first thing we do is notify the sanitation department not to pick up the embassy's garbage. Then we send out a fleet of used cars to block the embassy's driveway.

"We also begin digging a subway station in front of the ambassador's residence, with our workers starting to drill at 5 o'clock in the morning. This serves two purposes. It prevents the ambassador from getting any sleep; and the dug-up street makes it impossible for him to hold any diplomatic receptions because people have nowhere to park."

"THAT'S PRETTY good," I said. "What do you do when someone in the White House says that an ambassador is not to be treated at too high a level?"

"The first thing we do is notify all the restaurants in town that if the ambassador reserves a table, he is to be seated next to the kitchen door.

"Then we send out word to the town's caterer that when the ambassador holds a party he must be provided with three-day-old hors d'oeuvre.

"We also telex all Washington hostesses to say that if he is invited to a dinner party, the President wishes him to be seated 'below the salt.'

"Wehn the ambassador requests to see the secretary of state, he is given an audience with a code clerk trainee. We tow his car away while he's in the building."

"YOU PEOPLE don't fool around," I said.

"We don't set policy here. We only follow orders," Mr. Bitterman said.

"What if the ambassador gets angry and goes back to his own country in a huff?"

"Then," said Bitterman with a smile, "we notify the airlines and they arrange to lose his luggage."

Firemen Burn 1,200 Novato Christmas Trees

Novato firemen burned 1,200 Christmas trees at the annual burn last weekend, despite an arsonist's attempt to beat them to the punch by setting trees afire last Wednesday.

Only about a dozen trees were burned in the early attempt, and by the weekend more than double last year's number had been accumulated at the training grounds at Atherton and Olive avenues, according to Lt. Raymond E. Dougherty.

U.S., Japan Should Maintain Close Ties, Ambassador Says

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Japan's ambassador to the United States warned today that the two nations must maintain close relations or President Nixon's visit to Peking might be "the beginning of a process of unraveling our mutual security in the Far East."

Ambassador H. E. Nobuhiko Ushiba said he hoped any danger of a split between the two countries over China had been averted by the weekend meeting of Nixon and Japanese Prime Minister Eisaku Sato at San Clemente.

He told the Commonwealth Club of California that the President's trip to Peking next month was the most dramatic new element in the Far East.

"This can and should be a very significant contribution to peace and stability in Asia," Ushiba said. "But it might—however unintentionally and contrary to American desires—be the beginning of a process of unraveling our mutual security in the Far East.

"Which of these two possibilities becomes a reality, in my opinion, will depend in very large measure on the real nature of U.S.-Japanese relations in the critical period to come.

"If our consultation and collaboration are intimate and substantial, and they repose on mutual confidence, then I believe we can view the future with optimism.

"But if they should become largely pro forma and cosmetic, then I would worry about what the future holds in store. Both of us have far too much at stake to risk getting out of tandem on the important subject of China."

Ushiba said the sudden announcement of Nixon's planned visit came as a "profound shock" to Japan. He warned that China might be trying to isolate his nation politically in the process of evolving a new relationship with the United States.

"If U.S. rapprochement with China took place at the cost of weakening American ties with Japan, both our countries would lose heavily and incur very great risks," he said. Ushiba said Japan felt the rapprochement should occur in a manner which will also improve its relations with China.

The ambassador also urged the United States to reverse its slide toward a protectionist trade policy and renew its leadership in seeking the freest possible exchange of goods in world markets.

He said the realignment of currencies brought on by devaluation of the dollar had restored the U.S. to a highly competitive position in world markets.

"It no longer has any need or justification to consider retreating into a protectionism which —had it taken root—would eventually have shriveled the entire world trading system, and would also have seriously eroded the political ties between the United States and its closest friends and allies," the ambassador said.

He said Japan had made important contributions "at considerable sacrifice" to restore the United States' trading position. Ushiba said his nation now maintains import quotas on only 12 industrial items, while Japanese imports are subjected to de facto quotas on about 90 items in the U.S. market.

WARDS RIVERSIDE PASSENGER TIRE GUARANTEE

If the tire fails due to such defects, Montgomery Ward will replace the tire FREE during the first 20% of original tread life, and for a prorated charge based on tread wear received during the remainder of the tread life. If the tire fails due to road hazards (excluding repairable punctures) during the original tread life, Montgomery Ward will replace the tire for a prorated charge based on tread wear received.

Prorated charge is based on the regular exchange price in effect at the retail store to which returned or the current catalog price in effect at the store or agency to which returned, in either case including F.E.T. Original tread life is to the top of the tread wear indicator.

For service under this guarantee return tire with evidence of date of purchase to any Montgomery Ward branch.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the regular exchange price in effect at the retail store to which returned less the following dollar allowances:

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wear-Out Allowance
Primera 35,000 miles	Prorated on Miles Driven
WTO/Radial 40,000 miles	Prorated on Miles Driven
